Wickersham Commission Not To Review Billings Case

NOT WITHIN PROVINCE OF THAT GROUP

Subcommittee May Touch On Case in Report to Be Made at Later Date
STATEMENT IS MADE
Early Prohibition Report May Be Made By Commission, Rumors Claim

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(UP)—George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, declared today it is beyond the province of the commission to investigate the Mooney-Billings cases, with a view to making recommendations as to their disposition.

The statement followed reports that the commission might investigate the cases of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, now serving life sentences in California prisons after having been convicted of complicity in the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916.

At the commission it was intimated, however, that a report touching on the case might be made by the subcommittee on lawlessness by governmental enforcement officials. This subcommittee is headed by Judge William S. Jenson of Iowa. The other members are: William I. Grubb, Birmingham, Ala.; Newton D. Baker, Cleveland, and Judge Paul J. McCormick, of Los Angeles.

Wickersham's statement follows: "At a meeting of the commission held November 24, 1930, some correspondence concerning the desire of certain people to have this commission make some recommendations regarding the Mooney-Billings case was brought to the attention of the commission.

"After some discussion the chairman was authorized to say whenever that matter or a similar matter came up, that it is beyond the province of this commission to investigate individual cases with a view to making a recommendation as to their disposition, particularly in state courts. For that reason, among others, that the commission has no power to examine witnesses or redetermine facts."

The Mooney-Billings matter was understood to have been placed before the commission by Judge Kenyon, who returned here yesterday from St. Louis where he had been sitting in Federal court.

The return of Judge Kenyon added weight to the belief in many quarters that an early prohibition report might be forthcoming from the commission. Judge Kenyon, a staunch dry, is understood to have been active in opposing any report favoring modification of the prohibition laws.

PLANS FOR SUBWAY ON EAST FOURTH STREET PROTESTED

OKLAHOMA GAS WELL FIRE IS CHECKED OUT

Forty-five Pounds of Nitro Glycerine Is Used to Put Out Blaze

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 22.—(UP)—The third effort to blast the flames from the unruly "Wild Abbe" gas well of Deep Rock Oil corporation on the Wewoka townsite was successful today.

A 45-pound charge of nitroglycerine placed in a trough near the torch and detonated by electricity snuffed out the blaze shortly before 9 a. m. today.

The large charge was emplaced by Harry and M. M. Kinley, famous wild well fighters who flew to Tulsa last night to prepare the special explosive after two efforts to blast the well Sunday failed.

A great cloud of dust and debris obscured the Douglas well when the charge detonated. The force of the explosion forced the gas column deep into the hole, creating a vacuum. When the gas again rose, the fire above the surface had burned itself out.

A second effort, the last dart of flame had disappeared high in the air, the roaring column of gas, estimated at 60,000,000 cubic feet daily, mixed with a daily oil flow of 800 barrels, shot skyward.

The task of shutting in the wild well was expected to take two or three days. Drillers moved a Starr machine over the hole and began the hazardous task of controlling the flow.

A northerly wind whipped the great clouds of oil and gas spray away from the city but caused U. S. Highway No. 270 to be sprayed with oil. Traffic was rerouted on this main highway. Several houses and a Prairie Oil and Gas pipeline station were sprayed.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH SUED FOR $10,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Bad Girl, Inc., today filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission asking $10,000 damages against the Postal Telegraph company for alleged discrimination against the play "Bad Girl" now running in New York.

The complaint alleges the Postal Telegraph company refused to extend its theater ticket service to the Hudson theater, which is presenting "Bad Girl" and thereby damaged the show to the extent of $10,000. The company is under contract to distribute and sell tickets for members of the League of New York Theaters, Inc., to which the Hudson belongs.

MONEY NEEDED TO SEND BASKETS TO POOR

Will you help to fill a Christmas basket for some family whose Christmas dinner will be missing without your help? The Register will receive special contributions for this purpose. Baskets are being prepared by the Salvation Army and other agencies.

Money left at or sent to The Register before Wednesday noon will be used to provide more food to pack more baskets to feed more needy families. The demand for food exceeds the resources available for the purpose. The need is great, and the Register is glad to help meet it.

Leave or send your contribution quickly to The Register, so that there may be time to purchase the supplies and get them ready for distribution by Wednesday afternoon. It takes five dollars worth of food to fill a Christmas basket. Every dollar added to the fund will help.

Former Crooks Asked To Give Lectures

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Reformed criminals of polished appearance were notified today that they may find lucrative and congenial employment as lecturers and professors at the University of Chicago.

Their duties will be to educate law enforcement officers in the intricacies of bootlegging, banditry, safe cracking, payroll robbings and even murder. The officers then will be able to apprehend the criminal with greater efficiency.

August Vollmer, former chief of police of Berkeley, Calif., and now professor of crime detection at the university, will have charge of the courses.

RESIDENT HERE FOR 45 YEARS ANSWERS CALL

Miss Miranda P. Knight, 84, Passes Away Sunday at Home of Nephew

MISS MIRANDA P. KNIGHT, 84, well known pioneer resident of Santa Ana, and for a number of years actively identified with the activities of the First Baptist church here, passed away yesterday at the home of her nephew, Holmes Bishop, on Fairhaven avenue.

Miss Knight, who was born in Vermont, came to Santa Ana in 1885, and in recent years maintained a home at 1012 Spurgeon street.

Her uncle was the late Rev. E. Parker, the first Baptist minister here.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fannie K. Ticknor, of Austin, Minn.; two nieces, Mrs. Harriett Hardy, of Austin, Minn., and Mrs. Ruby Martin, of Stanford, Calif.; three nephews, Roy K. Bishop, Fern Bishop and Holmes Bishop, of this city. She was the aunt of the late Clyde Bishop, well known Santa Ana attorney. The deceased also was a sister of the late Anna K. Bishop.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the Smith and Tuttle funeral parlor, the Rev. Harry E. Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be made at the Fairhaven cemetery.

LAST POLICE HORSE RETIRED

COLUMBUS, O.—The last of 13 police horses, Old Babe, has been retired. Old Babe and a dozen others have been honorably discharged from traffic duty because of modern traffic. The horses have been placed on a farm.

PUBLIC WORKS LAW WILL AID ENTIRE NATION

Will Reduce Unemployment and Stimulate Buying, Says Arthur Woods

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The new additional public works law enacted by congress and signed by President Hoover will have a material effect in reducing unemployment and stimulating purchases, in the opinion of Arthur Woods, chairman of the president's emergency committee on employment.

"With this additional opportunity," Woods said in an interview with the United Press, and with all the co-operation of all federal branches together with the help of state and local authorities, we should soon witness a material result in the absorption of unemployed and in the stimulation of purchases of building materials which will be involved.

"In addition all branches of state and municipal governments throughout the country are working together to slash the red tape which is impeding their own public works projects. The result will be that a great program of public works projects. The result will be that a great program of public works will be pushed forward into production and jobs created to help meet the present emergency."

Receive No Pay

Beginning his third month on his job today, Woods has practically completed his organization. He has brought in men from key industries and selected them so that the various sections of the country are represented. Woods and many of his assistants serve without pay.

"We are merely running a clearing house," he continued, looking about the workmanlike office he is occupying, adjoining that of Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

"We have a total of $271,000,000 worth of federal construction in the mill now. Formerly work of this kind moved as slowly as cold molasses. It was held up by red tape. It was not, on the whole, the fault of government officials. Now we have the co-operation of the supervising architect, the treasury department, the attorney general and leading committee chairmen in congress such as Senator Smoot.

CONFESSED SLAYER SAFE FROM MOBS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 22.—(UP)—Raymond Gunn, Negro, confessed slayer of Miss Velma Collier, Maryville, Mo., school teacher, was held in jail here today, safe from the threat of mobs which previously had tried to take him from the sheriff who guarded him.

Gunn was brought here last night from St. Joseph, in Buchanan county, at the order of Sheriff John Roach, who feared another attempt, similar to that made early Sunday night, to take Gunn from the sheriff who guarded him.

Sheriff Roach shouted in refusal through the barred steel door of the jail, and then called police and firemen to aid him. The 35th tank corps, stationed at St. Joseph, also was called out, but, although no concentrated attack materialized, it was hours before the mob dispersed.

Council May Abandon Its Proposition

Property Owners to Appear at Meeting Tonight at Public Hearing

DEFEAT of the East Fourth street subway project at the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific railroad crossings loomed as a possibility today with the filing of numerous protests against the undertaking. Hearing of protests against the improvement, officially recorded as Acquisition and Improvement District, No. 9, proceedings for which are now under way, has been scheduled for tonight at the regular city council meeting, inquiries at the city clerk's office disclosed.

Formal protests against the proposed improvement, the estimated cost of which is $150,000, have been filed by the Southern Pacific company and the Pacific Electric company as owners of real estate property on East Fourth street, and by the Barr Lumber company and George M. Ketscher, owners of large real estate holdings located within the proposed improvement district.

The protests filed by the Barr Lumber company and George M. Ketscher to any and all improvements set forth in the Resolution of Intention No. 2260, adopted November 24, and to the extent of the proposed assessment district, to the zones into which the district is divided, and to the percentage proposed to be raised from each zone.

While no protests had been filed up to 10 o'clock this morning by small property owners within the proposed assessment district, extending from Main street to the city limits on Fourth street, it was reported that several would come in time to be heard at tonight's meeting. It also was rumored that a large delegation of property owners would be on hand to voice verbal objections against the undertaking.

According to an order issued by the state railroad commission, 90 per cent of the estimated cost is to be borne by the city, raised through formation of an assessment district; seven and one-half per cent by the Santa Fe railroad; and two and one-half per cent by the Southern Pacific.

While there is considerable opposition to the undertaking, there are many of the affected property owners who favor the project. It is claimed that the construction of the subway not only would facilitate the flow of traffic over Fourth street, but divert motor travel to this thoroughfare and thus stimulate the upbuilding and development of this section of the city.

At the time petitions were filed for the improvement, it was thought that the Santa Ana boulevard was to be extended across Main street through the east part of the city, connecting with East Fourth street.

WOMAN, 105, DIES IN MINNESOTA HOME

WINONA, Minn., Dec. 22.—(UP)—Mrs. Catherine McGuane, 105, who claimed to be Minnesota's "grand old lady," died yesterday at the home of Mrs. Mary O'Malley.

She left Ireland in 1850 to come to the United States. Mrs. McGuane was born in Clare county, Ireland, on May 27, 1825. Shortly after her arrival in New York where they lived for the rest of their lives except for a short time when Mrs. McGuane lived in Minneapolis in 1928.

RIOTING MARKS RETURN OF PRINCE LOUIS TO MONACO

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Rioting marked the return today of Prince Louis II, ruler of the principality of Monaco.

A mob clashed with the Monaco army of between 100 and 200 soldiers and attempted to burn the stone police station as part of a political demonstration by dissatisfied elements. About 40 Constitutionalists were arrested.

Prince Louis, whose rule has caused several political upheavals in the little state in the last two years, arrived at 12:30 p. m. accompanied by Prince Rainier and Princess Antoinette, his grand children. Prince Rainier is his heir.

The restless political element in the principality had been gathering for hours before the arrival of the prince and were carefully watched by the soldiers, who wear brilliant red and blue uniforms. Some months ago the political unrest grew so strong that the army was forced to protect the prince when a mob stormed the palace. Disorders in the principality grey out of protests by an influential faction against the action of Prince Louis in permitting the directors of the famous Monte Carlo casino to increase their power. The prince, interested in scientific research, was charged with neglecting his people.

A new phase in the fight of the citizens for full constitutional rights was started immediately before the prince returned, when Louis Aurelia, one of the political leaders, united the national and democratic parties, representing 30 per cent of the voters, as opposition to the so-called Bonaparte insurgents.

The political scheming and agitation accompanying unification of the national and democratic parties fired the restless population to violence upon the arrival of the prince.

EDISON COMPANY TO BUILD $5,000,000 SWITCH PLANT AT STANTON IN NEXT YEAR

THE CONSTRUCTION of a $1,500,000 major switching station at Stanton, to supply electric energy to all Orange county distribution stations, is planned by the Southern California Edison Company Ltd., for 1932, according to the announcement made here today by R. E. Bacon, manager of the company's Santa Ana district. The new station, together with transmission facilities, ultimately will represent a $5,000,000 Orange county investment. The initial capacity of the switching center will be 200,000 horsepower.

The need for the station has resulted, according to Mr. Bacon, from the increased present demand for electric service in all sections of Orange county and the assured growth of load in this territory. Distribution stations of the county are now being supplied with energy from the company's Lightship substation, a major switching point on the main north and south transmission line that links the company's Sierra Nevada hydro-electric generating system and the Long Beach steam-electric generating station.

A direct transmission line, 15 miles long, will connect the new station at Stanton with the Lightship station. Construction of this transmission line will involve approximately another $1,500,000. The site of the Stanton station occupies approximately 40 acres of land a mile east of the town of Stanton, which is the approximate center of the most highly developed section of Orange county. The station site is on the Southern Pacific railroad, which will be utilized in bringing to the construction site the heavy materials and electrical equipment to be required.

The proposed 1932 construction of the station represents only a part of an extensive program of development planned for Orange county, according to Mr. Bacon. As the demand for electrical service continues to increase, resulting from greater domestic, agricultural and industrial use of electric power.

OFFICIAL OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE ATTACKS RULING OF JUDGE CLARK IN STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(UP)—The ruling of Federal Judge William Clark that the prohibition amendment is invalid was attacked on the ground of reasoning and authorities cited, in a week-end statement issued by E. H. Cherrington, Anti-Saloon league official and general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church did not mention the Clark ruling in its weekly discussion of prohibition matters, but attacked the American Bar association's vote against prohibition as "not truly representing" the legal profession.

Cherrington's statement on the Clark ruling, which is being advanced for hearing before the supreme court in the near future, said:

"He prefers the convention method of amending the constitution when delegations of power to the federal government is involved because the efficacy of prohibition enforcement has not been demonstrated to him, because a former president, a senator and a number of unnamed writers on political science, a prominent author of a book of democracy, and a very enthusiastic wet propagandist have made various statements concerning prohibition achievements, because arguments offered in vain before the supreme court of the United States make an appeal to him which they did not make to that court, which rejected them."

BART COCK CRACKS UP IN LANDING

Former Poly Football Star Overshoots Field at Alhambra In Darkness

FIVE OTHERS ESCAPE

Plane Hits House and Two Occupants Unhurt But Part of Mail Destroyed

HOWARD (BART) COCK, former Santa Ana and University of California football star, miraculously escaped death early today when the tri-motored mail plane he was piloting from Salt Lake City "overshot" the Western Air Express landing field at Alhambra, crashed into a house and burst into flames.

Cock's co-pilot, George Wherwood, and four passengers were in the plane but nobody was injured, although Al Osterhout, Big Pine, Wyo., one of the passengers was treated at the Alhambra hospital for slight burns about the face and hands.

The ship was completely destroyed, however, and so was 1445 pounds of Christmas mail.

Airport attaches said the pilots overshot the field and apparently were attempting to take to the air for a second landing when the ship crashed into the house, owned by A. L. Toner.

Had the plane struck a few feet to the west, Toner and his wife probably would have been killed. They were sleeping when the nose of the giant mail ship crashed through the living room, adjoining the bedroom, Toner and his wife died in their night clothes.

Pilot Cock and Wherwood and the passengers succeeded in pulling a number of sacks of mail from the plane before it was demolished. Postal authorities said the mail loss probably would run only about 50 per cent of the cargo.

Cock was captain and fullback of the Santa Ana high school football team of 1921 which won the Southern California interscholastic championship. At California he played tackle on the varsity three years.

Soon after his graduation he entered the air service, at Kelly Field, Tex., and was licensed as a pilot several years ago. He has been flying the Los Angeles-Salt Lake mail route since.

He and Mrs. Cock, formerly Gertrude Linsbarn, now reside at 1351 South Amalia street, Los Angeles. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Cock, live at Tustin.

CONDUCT SERVICES FOR WARREN BOVARD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Private funeral services for Warren B. Bovard, vice president and controller of the University of Southern California, were held here today. Interment in Hollywood cemetery followed.

Honorary pallbearers included Mayor James Ralph Jr., who flew here from San Francisco; Mayor John C. Porter, Bishop Charles Wesley Burns and Samuel K. Rindge, and trustees of the university.

Bovard's widow, who was in the middle west when he shot himself last week, attended the services as did Dr. and Mrs. George F. Bovard, his parents.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

To some the certainty of the nearness of their dear ones in Paradise is an intellectual concept, but they are sure of it. To others it is an emotional reality, and no one could tell them of what they know. Some struggle on with hopes that seem to tarry that they may be more sure.

But the experience of the multitude is irrefutable; one always feels the nearness of those beloved, who pass on into the next room of God's house.

The intensity of the consciousness varies but its reality is its validity.

Pants Lead To Youth's Arrest

A pair of pants, which police claim were stolen in a burglary here on November 18, last night, led to the arrest of Ted Baker, 17, who is being held in custody on suspicion of burglary. The youth was arrested by Detective C. V. Adams, when the officer found him wearing the pants, he reported.

The pants, according to Adams, were stolen from the room of Paul Broutoyer at 218 1/2 North Birch street, together with other wearing apparel valued at about $100, it was reported.

No formal charge has been placed against young Baker pending an investigation which the police department is making today.

THREE INJURED IN CAR CRASH NEAR LA HABRA

Three persons were seriously injured Saturday night at 11 o'clock when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve on Telegraph road, west of La Habra, the car crashing into a telephone pole with such force that the pole was severed at the base.

Two of the persons were sailors aboard the S. S. Holland, Z. C. Merryfield and Frank Drewery. The other was Mrs. Merrifield, wife of the driver of the machine.

All were taken to the Whittier hospital, where it was reported Merrifield suffered a broken leg, a fractured skull and serious scalp wounds. Drewery was badly cut and bruised and Mrs. Merrifield was badly bruised and cut about the head.

The two sailors were removed to a hospital ship at San Pedro yesterday. Mrs. Merrifield remained in the Whittier hospital.

According to information received here, the travelers were on their way from San Diego to Altadena, where they expected to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Merrifield's brother.

Two persons were reported slightly injured at North Main street and El Portal yesterday when cars driven by Drury Wood, of Lomita, and Helen Jones, of 807 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, collided.

Miss Jones and William Mitchell, the later a passenger in the Wood car, were taken to the Orange County hospital, where they were given first aid treatment. Both were able to return to their homes later.

Rubin Durrion, 4 year old boy, residing at 920 Lincoln street, was run down and seriously injured at 10 o'clock yesterday morning by an automobile said to have been driven by Benjamin Gomez, 18, of 907 Stafford street, according to a report filed at the city police station.

The child was on a tricycle when it ran out in the street in front of the Gomez machine, according to a police report. The boy was cut and bruised about the head but his condition is not expected to prove critical, it was reported. Lorenz Martel, of 1044 Lincoln street, was riding with Gomez at the time of the accident.

C. L. Scott, of 317 Lacy street, reported to the police today that his automobile was stolen from in front of his home last night.

William W. Wright, 23, of 125 West Walnut street, Santa Ana, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff A. L. Steward last night on a drunk charge and is being held in the county jail for Orange police officers.

Asserted to have been a runaway girl from Ensenada, Maria Miramontes, 18, is being held here for her father, who is expected to come from Mexico today to return the girl to her home. Police were asked to be on the lookout for the girl Saturday and when she appeared at an office in the court house, she was taken into custody and turned over to the police.

Two men were arrested last night on drunk charges and lodged in the county jail. James Camel, 63, was arrested by Officer Dean at Fourth and Main streets and Peter Clark, 35, was arrested by Officer Heard at Fourth and Ross streets. They were to be given hearings in police court today.

BURGLAR GETS 35 CENTS IN FOUR GARAGES

The burglary of four Santa Ana garages last night netted the thieves only 35 cents in change, according to police records.

The Chevrolet Sales and Service company, located at First and Sycamore streets, the Kay and Burbank store, at 114 South Main street, the L. D. Coffing company, at Fifth and Spurgeon streets, and the Central Auto Body Works at Sycamore and Walnut streets were entered.

As all of the burglaries were committed in much the same manner, police are of the opinion that the "jobs" were committed by the same person. In each of the four cases, entrance into the building was made after a telephone pole had been climbed at the rear of the places and windows had been forced.

The thief overlooked considerable cash, secreted in the Chevrolet garage, it was reported. There was nothing in the cash register, which was forced. The only money found by the thief was at the L. D. Coffing company, when a cash register in the stock room yielded 35 cents.

A rear window was broken at the Coffing place, in order to gain entrance, it was reported.

LOCAL MEN TO ATTEND WATER DISTRICT MEET

Members of the Santa Ana city council, accompanied by City Engineer Clyde C. Jenken, will represent the city at a general meeting of Metropolitan Water district to be held tomorrow afternoon in Pasadena, inquiries at the city hall revealed today. Included in the Santa Ana delegation will be Colonel S. H. Finley, former member of the county board of supervisors, and now secretary of the Metropolitan water district, who officially represents the city of Santa Ana in the proceedings of the organization.

Culminating engineering studies started more than six years ago, the engineering board of review was to present to the Metropolitan Water district board of directors late today its recommendation of the route to be followed by the Colorado River aqueduct.

The board of review, that has studied reports of engineers made over a period of six years, is headed by Thaddeus Merriman, chief engineer of the New York City water supply system and includes A. J. Wiley, consulting engineer of Boise, Idaho, and Richard R. Lyman, consulting engineer of Salt Lake City, Utah. Wiley was one of three engineers who reviewed Orange county flood control plans over a year ago.

Following official presentation of the recommendation of the route today, a detailed discussion of the report will be held tomorrow afternoon in Culbertson hall, California Institute of Technology, in Pasadena.

William P. Whitsett, of the Metropolitan Water district, will preside. Merriman was expected to discuss in some detail the comprehensive report made by his board. Weymouth will outline facts concerning the many routes surveyed and the studies involved in the six-year survey, made by Merriman.

Merriman has characterized the Colorado river aqueduct as the greatest engineering undertaking in America. It will bring enough water from the Colorado river to meet the needs of 7,000,000 persons in Southern California cities.

URBINE'S MEAT MARKET

FACTS WORTH KNOWING
By P. M. YOUNG

TURKEYS

There are always six grades of turkeys: FANCY, PRIME, CHOICE, MEDIUM, No. 2 and OVER ONE YEAR OLD. Each grade has a separate cost. This year there is nine cents per pound difference between the fancy grade and the No. 2 grade. For our Christmas and New Year's Day trade we have the prize flock from Dr. Barnett's ranch.

If you were fortunate enough to have had a turkey from this market Thanksgiving, you will be pleased to learn that we have birds of equal quality for this holiday—come and look them over.

EXPECT CROWD WILL ATTEND BENEFIT SHOW

A full house was expected at the Fox West Coast theater tonight, at which time a Philco Baby Grand radio receiving set will be given away through the courtesy of the Turner Radio company of Santa Ana.

The show is to be a benefit performance for the unemployed of the city and the proceeds will be turned over to the Santa Ana Salvation Army for distribution among the poor at Christmas time, it was announced by L. M. Turner, head of the local firm dealing in Philco radios.

The radio set to be given away is on display in the lobby of the theater. Due to the benefit, a number of persons have asked about the show and expect to attend for the good deed they can accomplish by aiding the poor in this manner, Manager Norman Sprowl, of the Fox Theaters said today.

"We are going to have a real show. This benefit should net the Salvation Army a large sum with which to carry on its Christmas charitable work and the theater will do whatever it can to make the show a big success," Sprowl said.

The radio set will be given away as a Christmas present to some one in the house at the conclusion of the first night's show, Sprowl said.

The picture being shown at the theater for the benefit is "Rogue of the Rio Grande," the story of a Mexican bandit who robs to aid the poor, and who, in a clever manner, is able to turn the sheriff up as a robber and a cheat. Myrna Loy has the principal feminine role in the play, Jose Bohn plays the role of the bandit and Raymond Hatton also has an important part.

MANY STORIES OF DESTITUTE FAMILIES REACH EMPLOYMENT BUREAU CHIEF IN SANTA ANA

Is anyone actually hungry in Santa Ana?

The question finds its answer several times a day at the city free employment office, when Mrs. Belle Spangler deals with applicants for work and finds out their needs.

There is a white family, consisting of a man and his wife and five children, living in the west part of town, permanent residents of Santa Ana, who are absolutely destitute. The man has been gathering food from garbage cans in the neighborhood, and for several days the family lived on potato peelings picked up in this fashion. They preferred to be hungry rather than to apply for charity.

Immediate relief is required, and the family will get this, but there is no real help for them except in employment. The man is ready to do any sort of work, and the best Christmas gift that can be given him is a job that will let him earn food for his family.

"That is only one case of many," said Mrs. Spangler. "I have applications from a number of women, widows with children dependent on them, who are at the end of their resources. I wish that some of the women of Santa Ana would employ these needy women for help with the Christmas dinner, and then give them a basket of food to take home with them. Dishwashing, help with the cooking of dinner—anything that will give them a chance to earn a few dollars will be a heaven-sent gift for these women."

Very few jobs have been reported in the past few days at the office, and while dozens of men and women wait there throughout the day, it has been possible to put only a few to work lately. The appeal is for work, rather than for charity, but if work cannot be found, then food must be supplied by charity.

The need for Christmas baskets is going to tax every resource. Persons who are willing to help provide such baskets are urged to communicate with the Community Chest office, phone 3926, and offer assistance. All kinds of food are needed, as well as money.

Mother Goose Drama Is Enacted Here

The Story of Old Mother Hubbard, under different circumstances and with different characters, was enacted in Santa Ana early today.

With just as much confidence as the famous Mother Goose character, Mrs. Cora L. Minnix, nurse in charge of the home of Mrs. Sarah Cox, 1628 North Bush street, went to the ice box this morning for food to prepare for breakfast.

But when she got there the ice box was bare. The story has a different ending, however, for Mrs. Minnix "did her shopping early" today and replaced the stolen food.

The thief had entered by cutting the screen on the back porch.

MRS. ROSA TIEDE CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Rosa Tiede, 63, wife of Herman Tiede, of 338 East Palmira street, Orange, passed away at a local hospital this morning. Funeral services will be from the C. W. Coffey parlors in Orange Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Fairhaven cemetery. The Rev. P. M. McClellan will officiate.

Mrs. Tiede is survived by her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Eddie Rehbert, of Hamilton, N. D., and Mrs. Cora Gies, of Alberta, Can.

RIVERSIDE MAN TO GET HIGHWAY POST

Frank A. Tetley, well known Riverside business man, has been appointed a member of the California highway commission, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. P. Baumgartner, of Santa Ana, former publisher of the Santa Ana Register and now engaged in the banking business. Word of Tetley's appointment, made by Governor-elect James Rolph Jr., was received here today.

Tetley was president of Rolph-for-Governor club of Riverside county, during the recent campaign. He is well known throughout the Southland, having been identified with several civic and community projects.

Baumgartner tendered his resignation following the election of Rolph to the governor's office, and made it plain that he would not consider reappointment to the highway commission.

Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor, who is in charge of the 4-H club work in the county.

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory, will give an address over KREG tonight on the subject of "Termites and Termite Damage." The talk will be on the air from 7 to 7:15 p. m.

Members and guests of the Santa Ana High School Engineering club are enjoying a vacation in Yosemite National Park after arriving safely Friday afternoon. Although there is no snow on the floor of the valley the 32 Santa Anans are having an enjoyable time. The return trip will start Tuesday morning and the party will reach Santa Ana Wednesday afternoon.

Robert W. Buncie, of Anaheim, and Helen F. Woods, of San Bernardino, have applied for a marriage license in San Bernardino.

Local Briefs

Changing the date from the first to the fourth Tuesday of the month, the county council of the Orange county 4-H clubs will meet at the office of the county farm advisor at 7:30 p. m., December 23. The principal items of business for consideration are the January tour, reorganization of clubs and scoring of clubs for charters, according to

NEW PHONE CABLE FOR SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 22.—The Southern California Telephone company has faith in the future of the south coast. More than 40 per cent of the work has been completed on the installation of more than two miles of telephone cables in the alley south of the state highway, westward from the San Clemente central office. The cost is estimated at $7,800. E. S. Morrow, district manager of the company, says the project will be finished during the spring of 1931.

The cable is needed, he says, to care for future growth. Since the San Clemente exchange was placed in service, on July 30, 1927, it has had a steady increase in telephones. On January 1, 1928, there were 118 telephones; on January 1, 1929, 184; and on January 1, 1930, 247.

Arrange Funeral Of Clement King

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—Funeral services for Clement King, citrus grower of this city, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. James H. Hutchins, of Pasadena, will conduct the services. Interment will be made in Sunnyside mausoleum.

OPENS TAILORING SHOP
SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 22.—Katherine Le Gakes has established a tailoring and gown designing establishment in San Clemente. She is located in the Handy apartments.

In diameter, the plant Jupiter is about 86,500 miles and the surface area is about 23,506,236,600 square miles.

PHONE EMPLOYEES HOLD YULE PARTY

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—The Southern inn was the setting for the latter part of the week for the annual Christmas party of the young women connected with the local telephone exchange. The long table was gay with poinsettias and red candles and after the turkey dinner had been served the group drove to the home of Miss Ethel Sufferin, 636 East Collins avenue, where a pretty Christmas tree was enjoyed and gifts were exchanged.

Those sharing the pleasant occasion were Miss Bertha Peterkin, Miss Jewel Sudbrook, Mrs. Bess K. Mathis, Miss Edith Boder, Miss Edna Roney, Miss Hazel Carr, Mrs. Frances Sorenson, Miss Mable Stode, Mrs. Thelma Fee, Miss Veva Kavanagh, Miss Ethel Sufferin, Mrs. James Casto and Mrs. Mildred Chandler.

Garden Grove

A Christmas recital and party was given for pupils of Mrs. J. Orland Smith, instructor in the piano department of the Orange County School of Fine Arts, at her home on Stanford street Thursday evening. The following program was presented: "Shepherd's Cradle Song," by Marie McHenry; "Santa Claus," by Alice Bentley; "Hanging Gardens," by Phyllis Mae Ingle; "Hanging Gardens," by Phyllis Mae Ingle; "Toyland Parade," by Hopkins, Betty Perkins; reading, selected, by Nancy Nichols; "I Begin Waltz," by Betty Perkins and Jacqueline Todd; "The Chase," by Gullitt, by Jane Messersmith; "Jack and Jill," by Ketterer, Jacqueline Todd; "Christmas Waltz," by Alice T. Smith; by Carol McHenry; reading, selected, by Nancy Nichols; "Curious Story," by Heller, by Ruth Keele; "Wedding Day at Trolld Haugen," by Greg, by Eleanor Wisner.

A Christmas tree was enjoyed and refreshments served in keeping with the Christmas colors of red and green.

Guests besides the mothers were Mrs. Kate McCullah of Anaheim; Mrs. Charles Slack and daughter Marjorie, of Bellflower; Mrs. Maurice Bateman of Santa Ana and Mrs. Dorothy Thornburg of Long Beach.

Jolly Games Played
A Christmas party was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. E. R. Schneider Wednesday evening.

Jolly games were played and a treasure hunt by the children revealed a gift for each one. Appropriate favors were awarded their elders.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stuck and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Sprinkle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Head, Miss Mabel Head, Miss Winifred Schneider, Donovan Schneider and the hosts.

A Christmas party will be given for children of the community at the Garden Grove branch library Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The county library headquarters at Santa Ana is sending out a representative to tell the stories to the children.

Westminster

A clever presentation of a musical recital drew a capacity house to the church hall Thursday evening, when Miss Arlene Birchard of Santa Ana, who has music classes in Westminster and Midway City, presented her pupils in a delightful evening's entertainment. The hall was decorated with potted ferns and coteaster berries for the stage and pepper boughs for the windows. The room which was arranged to represent a broadcasting station.

Miss Birchard at the piano opened the program by giving the station song signal, announcing that she was broadcasting from KPO, Denver, and was transferring to HWSWC which stood for Happy Workers' Society of Westminster, California. Miss Shirley Day was the announcer of the local station. The program numbers were as follows: Songs, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "Silent Night" led by Mrs. Anna Campbell with Miss Phyllis Day at the piano; two piano duets, Betty and Dale Hell; piano solo, "Frolic," Maxine Bradley; piano solo, "The Cotton Pickers," Mildred Robertson; "The Shoemaker," Ruth Hosack; "Sylvan Lake," Audrey Penhall; duet, "Gallops," Virginia Brown and Miss Birchard; "Christmas Eve," Marvin Penhall; carol, Mrs. Anna Campbell; message of thanks to Miss Birchard by Mrs. Charles Parr, president of the Happy Workers society for her presentation of the benefit recital. A silver offering was taken, $10.25 being the amount received. The second part of program opened with the presentation of the number, "Rustle of Spring," by Miss Birchard and was followed by "Skippety Skip," by Dorothy Hell; "The Dance of the Marionettes," Barbara Campbell; "Humoresque," Virginia Brown; "Over the Waves," Frances Hell; "Invitation to the Waltz," Annabelle Day and Phyllis Day; "O Holy Night," Mrs. Anna Campbell and Mrs. Marie Hare, with Miss Birchard accompanying; "Face to Face," Hattie Edward; "The Vale of Song," Hazel Hell; "Valse Arabesque," Phyllis Day.

The concluding musical number was "The Dance of the Witches" and was followed by a short talk by the Rev. Cyril Carter, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

DAYS OF OLD RECALLED AT ORANGE PARTY

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—The gray heads of the 14 men and women who were guests of the Orange Woman's club yesterday nodded approvingly as gay songs which brought back long ago days were sung as a part of the program presented for their entertainment at the clubhouse. The men and women who are living at the Orange county farm were taken to the club house early in the afternoon and did not leave until the red candles with which the clubhouse was softly lighted had burned low in their sockets.

Memories of Christmas day when children of their own awakened to the glad tidings of Christmas morning, came to each man and woman there, as children of the club members appeared on the stage giving songs and readings.

In one corner of the room the tall Christmas tree glowed with lights and the room was bright with scarlet flowers and holly wreaths. Led by Mrs. A. Haven Smith, the old people joined in singing "Swanee River," "Old Folks at Home," "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory," "Turkey in the Straw," played by Mrs. Jess. Coe, brought forth the hearty applause of the guests.

After the program the guests were seated at one long table where a silver candelabra holding three red tapers centered the table and where an early supper was served. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Leon DesLarres, club president, and Mrs. Fred Alden headed the committee in charge of the event. The committee included Mrs. F. E. Hallman, Mrs. Walter Pixley and Mrs. Albert Heim.

Each one present was presented with a daintily wrapped gift, little Louise Heim making the presentations. Forty-one boxes containing fruit, candy and jellies were at the foot of the tree and guests each were given one of these, the others being taken to other old people at the hospital.

The program included a piano solo by Miss Katherine Gorath, reading by Joyce Crawford, songs by the boys' and girls' Glee clubs of the Orange union high school, a vocal solo, "The Infant Jesus" by Mrs. A. Haven Smith and dances by Phyllis Stuckey and Frances Robinson. Spanish songs were sung by Rebe. Myracle and Lucita Myracle, Juanita Frieles, Mildred Stuthell and Thelma Reeves.

The boys' high school quartet sang several selections. The quartet is composed of Louis Farone, D. C. Dillingham, J. Skiles and Gordon Nickell.

RESERVES GUESTS IN ORANGE HOME

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—Girl Reserves of the sixth grade triangle were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goode Saturday evening. Ruth and Rachel Goode and Miss Ellen Kolkhorst were the hostesses. Prizes at the games were won by Miss Evelyn Johnson and Miss Ruth Goode and stunts were put on by each girl present.

Mrs. Carl Lester, the advisor of the triangle, was presented with a serving hit and she in turn presented each of the guests with a volume of poems. Boxes of toys and clothing were prepared during the evening for the needy of the community.

Those present with the hostesses were Mrs. Carl Lester, May Cokely, Mary Doyle, Helen Talbert, Lily Hutchins, Barbara Kraemer, Helen Talbert, Betty Lenterman, Bobbie Burns, Mildred Kilgore, Ellen Kolkhorst, Jean Brown, Opal Walter and Evelyn Johnson.

'In Heart Of Boy' Presented Tuesday Night In Church

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—"In the Heart of a Boy" a story of Bethlehem will be presented tomorrow night at the First Methodist church under the direction of Ethel Terry, director of religious education. Miss Norma Tansinger will be the reader and the boys and girls choir will assist with the choruses.

Miss Leola McDaniel will sing a solo, "Sleep My Little Jesus" and "Luther's Cradle Song" will be sung as a duet by Barbara and Mary Robinson.

The cast of the play will be as follows: Amon, Pernel George Barnett; Judge, Billy Jordan; Asa, Harold Larson; Jesse, Llewellyn Williams; "Radiant Angel," Evelyn Richardson; King, Frank Nevelin; messengers from Herod, Howard Shiphard; "Mary," Christine Glover; "the Heavenly Host," Virginia Lee Harper, Catherine Feurstenau, Elizabeth Crawford, Peggy Parker, Lois Reeves and Jane Crawford.

REV. MINCK IN TALK ON "AWAY FROM MANGER"

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—"Away From the Manger" was the subject of the sermon given by the Rev. Franklin C. Minck Sunday morning at the Christian church. The choir sang the anthem, "Peace and Goodwill," by Wilson. "O Holy Night," by Adams, was sung by Mrs. Walter Kogler.

The Rev. Mr. Minck said in part: "Christmas day is a day looked forward to by all classes of people, a day of gift making, of mingling with friends but the real meaning of the day is not sensed by those who know not the Christ whose birthday is being celebrated. Your gifts have been enjoyed in the giving and receiving, your friends have returned to their homes, the students have returned to their schools. Many blue Mondays are experienced after the Christmas tide.

"Three groups are away from the manger. Herod did not find the Saviour, the wise men had gone another way. Christ had not come into his life. I well remember the day that Christ came into my heart. It truly was a Christmas time when you arose from baptism one with Christ. Any man who has not experienced that personal Christmas, he is away from the manger. He knows not the full meaning of the saving power of Christ in his life."

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—A. M. Thompson left yesterday for Eugene, Ore., to spend the holidays with his family.

The group under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Gross of the W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Gross at her home, 438 North Center street, yesterday. Patch work filled the day.

Roy E. Johnson, of North Tustin street, accompanied by his daughter, Violet, and Luberta Morgan, went to the Modjeska district yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Frieden, 163 South Batavia street, visited their son, Merle, at the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles yesterday. His condition remains about the same.

The S. A. V. I. water rate was changed to $1.20 per 100 feet this week.

Mrs. Myrtle Bay, city treasurer, will begin a two weeks' vacation Monday. During this time she will have as house guests old friends from Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Wingood and Mrs. Wingood's mother, Mrs. A. L. Jernan. Mr. Wingood is a passenger conductor on the Southern Pacific.

Mrs. Arthur Warren of Lynwood, spent Thursday in Orange in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Richards, Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Runnells left today for Fresno, where they will visit in the home of Mr. Runnells' brother.

A. B. Tiffany left yesterday for Fullerton, where he will remain in the home of his son until he has recovered his health.

Miss Hannah Nesser left this week to spend the Christmas holidays with relatives in Peoria, Ill. Miss Nesser is one of the Orange union high school faculty staff.

Mrs. Anna Slater spent the week end in the home of her niece, Mrs. Lillian Kelo, of Los Angeles.

IRVINE

IRVINE, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Jack Thornbarrow entertained a group of friends at a surprise party at her home here, honoring her husband on his birthday anniversary. Mr. Thornbarrow had spent the day with Joe Callens, of Santa Ana, giving the guests time to gather and making it a complete surprise. Mrs. Thornbarrow served the guests a delicious dinner, served on a table with Christmas decorations. The evening was spent visiting and playing cards. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Munger, Horace Munger, Joe Callens, of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Osterman, of El Toro.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham and son, Richard, of Pasadena, were all day guests Friday at the home of Mr. Graham's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boosey.

'CHRISTMAS' IS SUNDAY TOPIC OF DR. TIPPLE

VILLA PARK, Dec. 22.—"The Meaning of Christmas" was the topic of Dr. W. M. Tipple, pastor of the Congregational church, yesterday. He said in part:

"There are various meanings of Christmas. It means one thing to one person and another thing to another person. Thinking of the great gift to the world centuries ago and thinking of the Babe, born in the manger, the Christian religion which we profess, means Christ. Just the birth of Christ would not mean very much, but when we think of the life of Christ, we get a new idea of what real religion is. Jesus was more than a teacher; men remembered His parables, they remembered His Sermon on the Mount, they remembered His words, but without the teacher, Himself, they would not be the full message. The Christian way of life means incorporating the very spirit and personality of Christ into your own spirits and personality. One of the greatest preachers of old, the Apostle Paul, said, 'Christ liveth in me.'"

"We celebrate at the Christmas season, one of the greatest events of all history. We think of the fact that He lived and not of one particular event. In His life, Jesus showed the world what human nature, when completely obedient to God, could become.

"The story of the angels is beautiful, as we think about the shepherds out there tending their flocks and of the message that came to them, of Mary and Joseph, and of the Babe lying in the manger. The birth has been a symbol of something that must occur again and again if man is to be his highest and best. You remember the words of the Master, 'Except ye become as a little child.'"

"Christmas symbolizes not just the beginning of the Christian life, but the entire life. You remember He said to Nicodemus, 'Ye must be born again.' He was referring not to a physical birth, but to a spiritual rebirth. Jesus Himself being born into our hearts. The Scripture this morning says, 'No man hath seen God.' Now, that is true, but man hath seen the Son. No child who will try to form the Son's image, will fail to find God. So this is my brief message of Christmas, this morning. Let that mind be in you which was in Christ Jesus. With His spirit in our souls let us turn our faces to our daily tasks. Let us go forth to meet our friends and companions. Let us live in our homes, bear our burdens, our sorrows and our grievances; let us take up our joys and recreations, and let Him take complete possession of us. We shall then have within us the secret of life triumphant over all."

MARY SHEFFER IS BRIDE OF L. A. MAN

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—Charming in its simplicity was the wedding Saturday night of Miss Mary Sheffer of this city, and Dr. Arthur Nies of Los Angeles. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Sheffer, 267 North Cambridge street.

Miss Sheffer was very lovely in pale blue chiffon and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Miss Emma Moore, as bridesmaid, was frocked in apricot chiffon and carried pastel tinted sweet peas. Dr. Harold Neslund served the bridegroom as best man. Dr. E. J. Wirts of Los Angeles read the service.

Mrs. Sheffer, the bride's mother, was gowned in black flat crepe and she wore a corsage of sweet peas. After the ceremony a reception was held and the elaborately decorated cake was cut and served with ices. Miss Barbara Hallman, Miss Lydia and Miss Erma Miller assisted in serving.

The bride has been at the head of the laboratory at the Orange county hospital for the past few years and the bridegroom has offices in Los Angeles.

The young people will spend their honeymoon at Catalina Island and will reside in Los Angeles.

WELFARE STORE TO SEND OUT 150 BASKETS OF FOOD

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—One hundred and fifty Christmas baskets will be packed during the next few days at the Orange Community Welfare store. Tables at the store are filled with canned fruit, jellies and canned goods. One large consignment was the gift to the store from the Orange union high school and other schools and organizations have made gifts of food and clothing.

Preparations to move the Welfare store will be made after Christmas. The first of the year the store will be established in the old school building of the St. John's Lutheran church on South Olive street.

Mrs. Lillian Weltmann, who is in charge of the store, states that a long table and more racks for clothing are needed at the store as more clothing is now ready for distribution than for some time.

LONG AIRLINE

BERLIN.—One of the longest airlines in the world, linking Berlin and Tokio, is a possibility, according to reports reaching here from the Japanese Aviation Bureau of the Ministry of Communications. The line as discussed now would be operated from Tokio to Hongkong by the Japanese, over India by England, and the rest of the way by Germany.

CHURCH GROUP GIVES PAGEANT SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Dec. 22.—The Birth of the World's Savior was the subject of the sermon given by the Rev. H. F. Sheerer at the Baptist church Sunday morning. He said in part:

"God sent forth His Son, Jesus speaks of the 'Son of Man' as 'He that came down from heaven.' God's word was in the world long before Jesus was born. It was in the heart and conscience of men, in the inspired writings of poets and prophets, law givers, and sages, but it never came to full power over men's hearts and lives until 'The Word became flesh and dwelt among us.' This is what we celebrate at Christmas, not the coming of little we find in the teachings of Christ not already given in the Old Testament, but the putting of the well known word in terms of flesh and blood, let us consider. The preparation of the incarnation. This is the lesson of Christmas, that the secret of power is always incarnation.

"The second group that came to see Jesus came with exceeding great joy. They had seen the star in the east. They went away from the manger warned of God. We have no record that that day had changed their lives. Just to have a day set aside at the Christmas season means nothing unless the Christ has entered our life, raised our standards of life and we have found the way of life. We need to go home by the way of Jesus Christ, disobeying men as the wise men, who were warned of God. In His word we have all our instructions, both here and hereafter."

"The Coming of the Christ," by Wilson, was given at the evening service under the direction of Mrs. Leon DesLarres.

The characters in the dramatization were Simeon, Charles A. Virgie; Micah, the prophet, J. D. Rossier; herald angel, Mrs. Walter Kogler; Rachel, Lorraine Ingle; David, the shepherd, Randall Bivens; Zacharias, the priest, Floyd Owings; Elizabeth, wife of Zacharias, Melva Fletcher; Mary, mother of Jesus, Irene White. Miss Leola Ingle was the organist and Mrs. Walter Kogler directed the dramatization.

THE SCARAB MURDER CASE

A PHILO VANCE STORY
By S. S. VAN DINE

Philo Vance, detective, unearths the fact that a death trap has been laid for Benjamin Kyle, philanthropist and founder of the Bliss Museum of Egyptology. Evidence points to Bliss, the curator, as the murderer, but Vance says the evidence is too obvious. Meryt-Amen, who is part Egyptian, is the wife of Dr. Bliss; Salveter, member of the Bliss household is Kyle's nephew; Hani, is Meryt's foster father; Brush is the Butler; Dingle, the cook; Heath, the head of the household; Markham, the district attorney; Donald Scarlett, is a museum assistant. Kyle was killed in the museum with the statue of the Egyptian goddess of vengeance; by arold questioning Vance establishes the fact that opium is kept in the modiline cabinet of the Bliss house which is connected with the museum. It is evident that Bliss had been drugged at the time of the murder. Scarlett, who had told the detective the history of the household, intimates that Salveter has more than a passing interest in Mrs. Bliss. Vance questions Mrs. Bliss closely as to her movements on the murder and she says that she has gone to the breakfast room for a second cup of coffee and has taken a cup to Hani, who was ill. Vance believes that Bliss was drugged with opium placed in his coffee and that the blue scarab pin, belonging to him, was placed near Kyle's body with papers on which he had made calculations for a second trip to the tomb of Intef V. in Egypt. Heath declares the investigation is leading nowhere. The day is Friday the thirteenth.

"Quite right, Sergeant," Vance agreed pleasantly. "An amazing amount, Mrs. Bliss is helping us no end." He turned to the woman again. "You know, of course, who killed Mr. Kyle?" he asked blandly. "Yes, I know!" The words were spoken with impulsive venom. "And you also know why he was killed?"

"I know that, too. A sudden change had come over her. A strange combination of fear and animus possessed her; and the tragic bitterness of her attitude stunned me."

Heath let forth a queer, inarticulate ejaculation.

"You tell us who it was," he blurted vindictively, shaking his cigar in her face, "or I'll arrest you as an accessory, or as a material witness."

"Tut, tut, Sergeant!" Vance rose and placed his hand pacifyingly on the other's shoulder. "Why be so precipitate? It wouldn't do you the slightest good to incarcerate Mrs. Bliss at this time. And, d'ye see, she may be wholly wrong in her diagnosis of the case."

Markham projected himself into the scene.

"Have you any definite reasons for your opinion, Mrs. Bliss?" he asked. "Have you any specific evidence against the murderer?"

"Not legal evidence," she answered quietly. "But—but..." Her voice faltered, and her head fell forward.

"You left the house about nine o'clock this morning, I believe," Vance's calm voice seemed to steady her.

"Yes—shortly after breakfast."

"Shopping?"

"I took a taxi at Fourth Avenue to Altman's. I didn't see what I wanted there, and walked to the subway. I went to Wanamaker's, and later returned to Lord and Taylor's. Then I went to Sak's, and finally dropped in at a little shop on Madison Avenue."

"The usual routine," sighed Vance. "You of course bought nothing?"

"I ordered a hat on Madison Avenue."

"Remarkable!" Vance caught Markham's eye and nodded significantly. "I think that will be all for the present, Mrs. Bliss," he said. "You will kindly go to your room and wait there."

The woman pressed a small handkerchief to her eyes, and left us without a word.

Vance walked to the window and gazed out into the street. He was, I could see, deeply troubled as a result of the interview. He opened the window, and the droning summer noises of the street drifted in to us. He stood for several minutes in silence, and neither Markham nor Heath interrupted his meditations. At length he turned and, without looking at us, said in a quiet, introspective tone:

"There are too many cross-currents in this house—too many motives, too many objects to be gained, too many emotional complications. A plausible case could be made out against almost any one."

"But who could have benefited by Bliss's entanglement in the crime?" Markham asked.

"Oh, my word!" Vance leaned against the centre-table and gazed at a large oil portrait of the doctor which hung on the east wall.

"Every one apparently, Hani does not like his employer and writhes in psychic agony at each basketful of sand that is excavated from Intef's tomb. Salveter is infatuated with Mrs. Bliss, and naturally her husband is an obstacle to his suit. As for the lady herself: I do not wish to wrong her, but I'm inclined to believe she returns the young gentleman's affection. If so, the elimination of Bliss would not drive to suicidal grief."

Markham's face clouded.

"I got the impression, too, that Scarlett was not entirely impervious to her charms and that there was a chilliness between him and Salveter."

"Quite. Ça creve les yeux," Vance nodded abstractedly. "Mrs. Bliss is undeniably fascinating—I say; if only I could find the clew I'm looking for! I know, Markham, I've an idea that something new is going to happen anon. The plot thus far has gone awry. We've been led into a Moorish maze by the murderer, but the key hasn't yet been placed in our hands. When it is, I'll know which door it'll unlock—and it won't be the door the murderer intends us to use it on. Our difficulty now is that we have too many clews; and not one of 'em is the real clew. That's why we can't make an arrest. We must wait for the plot to unfold."

"It's unfolding, as you call it, too swift for me," Heath retorted impatiently. "And I don't mind admitting that I think we're getting sidetracked. After all's said and done, weren't Bliss's finger-prints found on the statue, and no one else's? Wasn't his stick-pin found beside the body? And didn't he have every opportunity to bump Kyle?"

"Sergeant," Vance spoke patiently—"would a man of intelligence and profound scientific training commit a murder and not only overlook his fingerprints on the weapon, but also be so careless as to drop his scarf-pin at the scene of the murder, and then calmly wait in the next room for the police to arrest him, after having made bloody footprints to guide them?"

"And there's the opium, too, Sergeant," added Markham. "It seems pretty clear to me that the doctor was drugged."

"Have it your own way, sir," Heath's tone bordered on impoliteness. "But I don't see that we're getting anywhere."

As he spoke Emery came to the door.

"Telephone call for you, Sergeant," he announced. "Downstairs."

Heath hurried eagerly from the room and disappeared down the hall. Three or four minutes later he returned. His face was wreathed in smiles, and he swaggered as he walked toward Vance.

"Huh!" He inserted his thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat. "Your good friend Bliss has just tried to make a getaway. My man, Guilfoyle, who I'd phoned to tail the doctor, picked him up as he came out of this house for his walk in the park. But he didn't go to the park. Mr. Vance, he beat it over to Fourth Avenue and went to the Corn Exchange Bank at Twenty-ninth Street. It was after hours, but he knew the manager and didn't have no trouble getting his money."

"Money?"

"Sure! He drew out everything he had in the bank—got it in twenties, fifties and hundreds—and then took a taxi. Guilfoyle hopped another taxi and followed him uptown. He got off at Grand Central Station and hurried to the ticket office. When the next train for Montreal?" he asked. "Four forty-five!" the guy told him. Gimme a through ticket," he said. It was then four o'clock; and the doc walked to the gate and stood there, waiting. Guilfoyle came up to him and said: 'Going for a hunt to Canada?' The doc got haughty and refused to answer. 'Anyway,' said Guilfoyle, 'I don't think you'll leave the country today. And taking the doc by the arm, he led him to a telephone booth... Guilfoyle's on his way here with your innocent friend.' The Sergeant rocked back and forth on his feet. "What do you think of that, sir?"

Vance regarded him lugubriously.

"And that is taken as another sign of the doctor's guilt?" He shook his head hopelessly. "Is it possible that you regard such a childish attempt of escape as incriminating?...I say, Sergeant; mightn't that come under the head of panic on the part of an impractical scientist?"

"Sure it might," Heath laughed unpleasantly. "All crooks and killers get scared and try to make a getaway. But it don't prove their lily-white innocence."

"Still, Sergeant," Vance's voice was discouraged—"a murderer who accidentally left clews on every hand pointing directly to himself and then indulged in this final stupid folly of trying to escape would not be exactly bright. And, I assure you, Doctor Bliss is neither an imbecile nor a lunatic."

"Them's mere words, Mr. Vance," declared the Sergeant doggedly.

"This bird made a couple mistakes and, seeing he was caught, tried to get outa the country. And, I'm here to tell you, that's running true to form."

"Oh, my aunt—my precious, dodderin' aunt!" Vance sank into a large chair and let his head fall back wearily against the lace antimacassar.

gest we do next?—interview Salveter?"

"Precisely," Vance nodded with unwonted seriousness. "That bigoted lad fits conspicuously into the picture; and his presence on the tapis now is, as the medicos say, indicated."

Markham made a sign to Heath, who immediately rose and went to the drawing-room door and belowered up the staircase.

"Hennessy! Bring that guy down here. We got business with him."

A few moments later Salveter was piloted into the room. His eyes were flashing, and he planted himself aggressively before Vance, cramming his hands violently into his trousers' pockets.

"Well, here I am," he announced with belligerence. "Got the handcuffs ready?"

Vance yawned elaborately and inspected the newcomers with a bored expression.

"Don't be so virile, Mr. Salveter," he drawled. "We're all worn out with this depressin' case, and simply can't endure any more vim and vigor. Sit down and let the joints go free. As for the manacles, Sergeant Heath has 'em beautifully polished. Would you like to try 'em on?"

"Maybe," Salveter returned, watching Vance calculatingly. "What did you say to Meryt—to Mrs. Bliss?"

ANNIVERSARY OF PILGRIMS IS RECALLED

"America's First Citizens" was the subject of a citizenship talk delivered over KREG Saturday night by the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church here. The talk was one of a series being given over KREG. The address follows:

"This is the eve of a great anniversary. Three hundred and ten years ago tonight our Pilgrim forefathers spent their last night on the little ship Mayflower. We can imagine something of the feelings that possessed them. There was hope and joy for they were at last at the place that was to be their home. There was something of anxiety. It was winter and the land was bleak and cold. There were no homes ready to welcome them; they must be built from the standing timber. The dangers from wild beasts and savage Indian were very real.

"But the next day they landed on Plymouth Rock. They were just a little company—one hundred and one men, women and children. But that little company were of more importance in the history of the world than any other group of people of which we know anything.

"We do not have time to tell of the terrible sufferings of that first winter. When spring came half of their number had died. They planted corn over the graves of the departed members that the Indians might not know how greatly their numbers had been reduced. The Mayflower was ready to depart for England. An opportunity was given for any who wished to do so to return to the homeland. How many, think you, returned to England? Not one! They stood on Burial Hill and watched the little ship go out the bay and into the ocean and disappear at the horizon and then they returned to their tasks again.

There is no more dramatic moment in American history. Suppose they had gone back! The whole course of history on this western continent might have been changed.

"Those Pilgrims and Puritans are gone but their works live after them. To them we owe our ideals of liberty. From them we received the very form of our government. They gave to this country its love for education. As soon as they had built houses in which to live they built the church and the school house. And from that day until this the church and the school house have occupied prominent places in our land in our hearts.

"But what has all this to do with citizenship? I am supposed to be giving a talk on Citizenship—sponsored by the Parent Teachers Association. It has everything to do with citizenship. I know of no better material for the study of citizenship than the story of our Pilgrim forefathers.

"When we think of citizenship training we are compelled to make a very humbling confession. We are not getting very far with it. Those who care are actually alarmed. They are alarmed by the apathetic indifference towards the responsibilities of citizenship by so large a proportion of our people. Even more causes for concern is the growing flagrant violation of law and the rights of the people. Crime is rampant. What is wrong with our citizens and what is wrong with our citizenship training?

"The difficulty, as I see it, is this: we are putting our emphasis upon the wrong thing. We are passing laws—multitudes of them. And then we try to train our citizens in loyalty to the law, to the constitution, to the flag. We train our youth to pledge allegiance to the flag and to recite orations on the Constitution and we do not seek to build within him that loyalty to right and truth and justice for which the constitution and the flag stand. In other words—we call for loyalty to the constitution and to the flag and we do not develop within the individual something with which to be loyal. Loyalty to right because it is right; loyalty to truth because it is truth; loyalty to conscience because it is the voice of God in one's own soul: these are the loyalties that make for upright citizens.

"Now it is just here that the Pilgrim forefathers are helpful to us today. They were loyal to conscience. They were loyal to right as they saw it. They were loyal to truth as they were able to understand it. They dared to stand alone and to suffer persecution and death. It took courage for that little group at Scrooby, England, to separate from the Church of England. For that deed they all suffered persecution and some suffered death. It took courage to migrate to Holland and start life all over again. It took even greater courage to adventure out across the Atlantic to that new and unknown land. But they did it because they

NEWS OF THE SCHOOLS

Frances Willard

Vacation Days

Students at Willard anticipated as in every school all over the nation, the happy vacation days now theirs. The Christmas spirit reigned through the school as home-rooms planned their annual Christmas parties. We think perhaps the seventh graders were actually looking around the corners for Santa Claus—though we know they would not admit it.

Club Tree

Boys Service clubs and the Every Girl's club planned a Christmas tree for the hall of the Washington building. A box was placed under the tree for donations of all kinds which were collected, to be distributed to the needy of the city. The Service clubs of Willard have for several years achieved a great deal in their service work, particularly at Christmas when the whole school cooperates in this work.

Varsity vs. Boys

Disproving for once, at least, the adage that man is superior to woman the girls varsity volleyball team defeated the boys in an exciting game held on the Washington grounds last Wednesday. Lucille Morris HS acted as referee and Frances Tibbitts as score-keeper.

Christmas Carols

Under the direction of Miss Esther Jean Davis the seventh grade boys glee club presented several numbers for the high school Christmas program. They sang two carols: "Upon a Midnight Clear" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

The 40 boys comprising the club will sing also at the P.-T. A. meeting to be held in the library at Willard.

Social Law Club

The Senior Social Law club sponsored by Miss Ruth Langley and W. P. Read met last week at the home of George Chapman at 2032 North Main street. The Social club is one of the oldest in school and has on its roster, numerous prominent students.

William Cornutt, president, presided at the business meeting. The club was given some parliamentary drill after which plans for the mid-year banquet were discussed. Major Anderson was appointed general chairman.

A new member, Elizabeth Sturtevant, was initiated after which a half hour of games was enjoyed. At the conclusion of the meeting delightful refreshments were served by the host.

Arts and Crafts

Miss Marion Libby's ninth grade art class did some interesting work that is particularly adaptable to the present time. Modernistic designs worked out by the students were applied in a most practical and attractive manner. Some worked out problems in book-binding while others applied their designs to telephone screens, hat boxes, shoe boxes and silk scarfs. Others made blocks and printed their design on Christmas wrappers and boxes.

Basket-ball Season

Basket-ball season for girls was in full swing at Willard as vacation days drew near. Captains were elected and teams chosen in order that the intermural schedule may start immediately after vacation. Captains chosen to lead their classes were, first teams: Juanita Pinnix, Twilla Heath, Rita Mercado, Dorothy Whitaker, Melvina Moore, and Naomi Sands.

Second team captains elected were Betty Wolfe, Ruth Pleis, Alsa Thompson, Lorraine Clark, Shirley Lengren and Hazel Schwarm.

After several days of heated campaigning elections for basketball manager for the coming season were held by the girls at Frances E. Willard. Juanita Pinnix, Mary Wallace, Helen Illingsworth, and Alice Cummings were the candidates.

Helen Illingsworth was the successful candidate and will guide the basketball teams through their winter season and Miss Dorothy Broadway, physical education instructor, will coach.

Christmas Program

Miss Elfreda Biggen's 17-1 home room presented a delightful Christmas program last Wednesday. Two plays were enjoyed by the students and both were enacted and directed by members of the class. The boys gave a scene from "Tom Sawyer" and were directed by Harley Babcock. The girls gave a scene from "Little Women." Their play was directed by Audrey Granas. Miss Biggen, as a compliment to the class, distributed candy canes.

The Lowell P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting in the kindergarten room Tuesday afternoon, in charge of the president, Mrs. A. H. Meyers. The meeting opened with singing "America" and the flag salute. Then the children of this school gave a very well rendered Christmas program as follows:

Song, "Jingle Bells" by Boys' chorus; "Silent Night" and "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" by the Girls' chorus; "Silent Night," accompanied by the Danish and Swedish folk dances by pupils of the A2 grade; songs, "Christmas Bells," "Carol," "Jolly Santa Claus," by primary grade pupils; Christmas play, "An Interview With Santa Claus," upper grade pupils. The cast of characters was as follows: "Santa Claus," Allen Ritter; "Mrs. Santa Claus," Mary Grace Tomlinson; reporters, Charles Glotzbach, Walter Swanberger, Russell Haney; "Ivan, the aeroplane mail carrier," Ralph Grill; "Kris Kringle," Wesley Paulson; Santa's workers, Jimmie Dudley, Robert Haven, Donald Glotzbach, Kenneth Haney, C. R.

Lemons, Eloise Hendrickson, Irma Watters, Nora Veale, Sedalia Lundak, Marian Baldwin and Lydia Elliott. Anna Utseth accompanied the musical numbers in the play at the piano.

During the business session it was announced by Miss Mead that Florence Eastman of the B5 grade won the P.-T. A. prize for having brought in the largest number of members, the number being five, and the B5 grade won the class prize for having the most members, their class having 100 per cent.

It was decided to buy a piano bench for the kindergarten room. At the close of the meeting doughnuts and coffee were served by Mesdames C. E. Rossier, F. A. Snipes, W. W. Kennedy and H. B. Lindley.

Preceding the P.-T. A. meeting all members interested in the Child Study circle were invited to a covered-dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Farren, Mrs. J. P. Wallace and Miss Mildred Mead were the guests of honor. After the lunch hour Mrs. Wallace led a discussion concerning the record which the mothers should receive from the study class and it was announced that Lowell P.

T. A. would be honored in the spring by having Dr. Gertrude Laws to give five lessons on child psychology. Mrs. Wallace was asked to lead the study group through the spring.

It was decided to hold two meetings in January the 8th and 22nd at 9:30 a. m. the first to be at the home of Mrs. Lindley, 912 Fairview avenue, and the subject to be discussed "Establish the habit of suspending judgment when dealing with children." The subject chosen for the second study was "Increase ability to face facts about self which make child adjustments more difficult." These topics are taken from Dr. Laws' objectives for her parent training classes for the years 1930-1931. At the close of the discussion those present adjourned to the school for the afternoon meeting.

Mothers who were at the luncheon besides the hostess and two honor guests were Mrs. Dale Grief and little son Eugene, Mrs. T. F. Nall and small son Ralph, Mrs. A. H. Meyers, Mrs. E. F. Mathews, Mrs. E. Gammel, Mrs. H. B. Lindley, Mrs. A. E. Chapman, Mrs. W. E. Tichenor and Mrs. P. Gammel.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Dec. 22.—Wheeler Birdwell, who is convalescing at his home from two recent operations, is gaining his strength and is now allowed to be out in his wheel chair in the sun each day. It will be six weeks before the cast can be removed from the limb.

Mrs. E. W. Toussaint spent Friday in Santa Ana.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Woodson moved Thursday into the new parsonage, which has just been completed. The home has been erected mostly by donations from members of the congregation and friends who gave work, materials and furnishings.

Vallery Snow has been ill at her home this week with influenza.

Yule Program Is Arranged by Club

MIDWAY CITY, Dec. 22.—Final preparations for the Community Christmas entertainment for Midway City have been completed. The entertainment is being held this evening.

The program, "The Lighted Highway," presented under the instruction of Mrs. Hart for the Sunday school and Mrs. Whittier for the Midway City Women's club, will be the main feature of entertainment. There will be treats given all of the children, the gift of the Woman's club, the distribution to be made from the trees. The program will start at 7:30 o'clock.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERA RAMSEY Junior Department

In the midst of a profusion of frivolous and lovely things at Christmas time, we feel almost dismayed. So many things so attractive, and yet so often we feel that they are lacking in true worth. Oh for something that would combine beauty and value. And what does this more admirably than a book?

When we think of Christmas books our thoughts turn to those for children. They are so particularly beguiling. Among the new books at the Junior Department of the Public Library are some that adults will enjoy looking over and reading with the children.

Perhaps, we enjoy most of all reading the stories and looking at the pictures in books for the youngest children. In "Baby Bear" and "Little Elephant" by Hamilton Williamson with pictures by Berta and Elmer Hader, we follow the antics of those baby animals with great glee. Baby Bear lives in a deep, pleasant jungle. But he must watch, for there are bees and tigers. One day while picking coconuts in a tree, he looked down and what do you think he saw? A hungry tiger, so hungry that "His skin was all loose, and he wanted to eat me so I would tighten his stripes." In spite of his many adventures he arrived safely home where his mother spanked him and mended his hurting nose and gave him honey for supper.

We are equally joyful while following the adventures of "Penny-Whistle" as told in word and picture by Erick Berry. Penny-Whistle's pappy brought him a penny whistle from town. He blew it and blew it. Unfortunately the whistle had just one note, and Penny-Whistle's pappy grew tired of this, so he told Penny-Whistle to run away and find a new note. This was accomplished with the aid of a bird named Bill, a parrot named Mary, an elephant, a cricket, and a little yellow bird. In the end he had quite a sizeable tune. The pictures showing the growth of this tune tell the story very cleverly in themselves.

Another favorite of the young which many older people share is the fairy tale. There are so many of these enchanting stories from every land. Hungarian and Rumanian fairy stories are, perhaps, not as well known as some of the others. In "Tales from the Crescent Moon" by May McNeer and Charlotte Lederer are told some Hungarian stories. "Why the Bee is Busy" by Idella Purcell and John M. Weatherwax is a collection of Rumanian tales.

The crescent moon of Hungary means many things to the people who work and play beneath it. To the children "it is a shining bowl holding mystery, magic and homely fables; tales from the crescent moon." There is the tale of Mustapha Hamil, "the favorite shoemaker of the favorite wife of the Glorious Pasha." He hit a woman on the head because she asked him a question that clever other people had asked before her. A strange tale is told of a speaking bird. Many other stories of magic and beauty take us to strange enchanting places inhabited by wonder people. Charlotte Lederer's illustrations are as lovely as the tales.

The stories in the collection "Why the Bee is Busy" are the tales which Little Marcu, in faraway Rumania hears from the lips of his grandmother. These are fairy tales about the busy life of nature that we find around us. A bad and selfish woman was turned into a tortoise, who never has any bread, but has to live on leaves and grass. In an adorable tale we are told "Why the Bee is Busy and Why the Spider is Sullen." The bee had been a sweet, kindhearted girl. A selfish, lazy, and gloomy boy was turned into a spider. All of the stories in this book are wisely and entertainingly told.

A legend that older boys and girls will enjoy is told in "The Cat Who Went to Heaven" by Elizabeth Costworth. This is the story of a young artist in Japan. He was painting a picture of the various gods and disciples of the earth and sky who came to say farewell to the Buddha. As he painted a beautiful white cat watched him. When the picture was finished the little animal was very sorrowful because there was no cat in the procession. The artist being kindhearted painted one, only to find himself in great trouble. However, a miracle happened. The place in the rear of the procession where the cat had walked was only white silk that seemed never to have felt the touch of ink. But the great Buddha, whom he had painted reclining with his hands folded on his chest, had stretched out an arm in blessing, and under the holy hand knelt the figure of a tiny cat. The symbolism in this tale will appeal to older readers. The inspired tone of the story is also expressed in the lovely illustrations by Lynd Ward.

Adventure appeals to all ages, but never is its appeal stronger than in youth. Every boy reaches in his imagination unheard places even to the end of the world. The great Northland has one of the strongest appeals of all strange lands, for here dwell people who live in a primitive style dear to the heart of a boy. In "Kah-da" by Donald Baxter MacMillan, we have a story of Northern Greenland of which Kah-da, a young Eskimo is the hero. It will be read with joy by boys in the fifth grade and higher.

His story is told from the time of his birth until the day he becomes a real hunter. There are exciting accounts of driving a dog team, attacking a polar bear, facing a herd of musk oxen charging into the dogs, and many other thrilling adventures. Kah-da is now one of the best hunters of the Smith Sound tribe. There is much valuable information about these people and their customs along with the exciting events.

In stories with a historical background, we often learn more about a period than by much study of straight history. Two new books in the Junior Department tell interesting stories of the past. "The King's Spurs" by Russell Gordon Carter is a story of the days of chivalry and knighthood. "Thistle Inn" by Katherine Adams has its scene in Scotland during the time Prince Charlie.

"The King's Spur" is the story of Guilbert du Guesclin. Many were his adventures and dangers before he won in battle his spurs of gold, the sign of true knighthood. Many things connected with medieval life are woven into this tale. A great fair, an old monastery, and a tourney are described so vividly that we seem to be taking part. That is perhaps, the chief value of such a tale, we, in living the life of the hero, relive the historical events, thus gaining a better understanding of a period and its people.

"Thistle Inn" tells of a fair-haired girl named Elspeth. It brings to us the sufferings and achievements of some very earnest and loyal hearted people of old Scotland. Perhaps, we usually think of a man or boy as the participant of an adventure. In this story it is a girl who plays a decisive role in the development of events.

These are only a few of the interesting new books in the Junior Department of the Public Library. Pay it a visit and make the acquaintance of these and others.

Seeks Damages for Injuries From Car

Asking judgment of $5368.50, Dalton Atherton has filed suit in superior court against Wilbur C. Selfridge and others for injuries sustained when he was struck and knocked down by an auto in Fullerton one night last September.

Atherton claims that he was standing at the left side of his car when the Selfridge car, operated by Wilbur C. Selfridge, while on the wrong side of the highway, struck and knocked him down and dragged him for a distance of 100 feet. He asks $5000 for personal injuries, $300 for damage to his clothing, $88.50 for medical and hospital bills and $250 for loss of his time from work.

ONE DIVORCE IS GRANTED FRIDAY

Only one divorce decree was granted in superior court Friday afternoon. It was awarded by Judge James L. Allen after a hearing on the complaint which had been filed by Hazel Campbell against Samuel Campbell, charging desertion. The Campbells were married in 1916 and have two sons.

One other matter that came before Judge Allen in which dissolution of a marriage was sought was a complaint for annulment filed by Catherine Mallot against Emmet P. and Charlotte E. Mallot. The plaintiff is the mother of the defendant Emmet, and alleged that her son and his wife were married at Reno last July when they were both under age without parental consent. The matter was continued until January 23 by the court pending an investigation of the case.

Radio Station Is Given Permit for Buena Park Studio

The radio commission has granted radio station KFI a construction permit for a 50,000 watt station at Buena Park. The location of the new station is to be one and a half miles northwest of Buena Park on the McComber ranch.

Tests were made on this site about two years ago at which time negotiations were under way with Mr. McComber. A construction permit was secured by the station about a year ago for a site four and one-half miles northwest of Buena Park and the radio commission has now granted a change of the location to the one on the McComber property.

Officials of KFI stated that they did not know when the deal would be consummated or when the station would be built.

Court Notes

Petition for probate of the will of Clarence E. Kinley, which has been filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs by Olive M. Kinley of Costa Mesa, shows that the estate is valued at $3800.

Complaint on a promissory note has been filed against Paul T. and Kathryn L. Benton by C. V. Brink, who asks judgment for $3133.74.

Herman Egge has filed a petition for probate of the will of Caroline T. Egge in which the value of the estate is reported as $6500.

The net value of the estate of John Rawley does not exceed $2500. It is alleged in the petition for letters of administration of the estate which has been filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs by Estella M. Rawley.

Three suits were filed Saturday by the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association seeking decrees of quiet title to property in San Clemente. The complaints name 109 defendants and list 89 lots to which clear title is sought.

Laird B. Warrington and others are defendants in a quiet title action concerning 19 lots in tract 349, which was filed Saturday in superior court by the California Trust company.

Charged with speeding, C. C. Sonstock of Anaheim, has been fined $25 in police court and a fine of $100 was given Hugh Ward, of Clearwater, Calif., charged with speeding a truck in Santa Ana.

Otis W. Reeves, charged with being drunk, was fined $20 in police court yesterday.

Two persons were fined $5 each in police court yesterday on charges of running their machines over fire hoses. They were: Lula Molina and Joe Ponchetti, both of Santa Ana.

Walter Lamb was fined $2 in police court yesterday on a charge of making a complete turn at Fourth and Bush streets in violation of a city ordinance.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Max Schmeling is under agreement, sanctioned by the New York boxing commission, to defend his title in New York under the auspices of Madison Square Garden... but that doesn't mean anything... Jack Dempsey, when champion, also labored under some such agreement, but he fitted to Philly and Chicago for battles... The New York writers are saying now that Bat Battalino is one of the most underrated champions the ring has seen in years and years... Before Bat beat chocolate recently, the Connecticut Vop was being referred to as a cheese champion... You might say that Cheese is stronger than chocolate... Barry Wood, the new Harvard captain, already has won 18 athletic awards... He is studying medicine.

RANKING THE TEAMS

Preliminary balloting by the jury that awards the Erskine championship football trophy, placed Notre Dame first, with 1077 votes; Southern California second, 836; Alabama third, 308; Washington State fourth, 267; and Northwestern fifth, 217.

One of the first deductions to be taken from the above results might be that a great many members of the jury didn't see Northwestern play Notre Dame. Southern California was placed 255 votes above the great Evanston team. It's hard to believe, but there it is, a black and white.

ONE FOR ST. MARY'S

The total of votes cast was 2052. St. Mary's California, got exactly one vote, a third place, and was ranked for 13th place in the list of rankings by Michigan, Tennessee and Texas. Fordham and Tulane each got two. Above these were Western Maryland, Dartmouth, Colgate, Army and Utah. The Army, a team that went through a schedule with only a 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, was ranked seventh, sandwiched in between Utah and Colgate. It looks like just another job for Einstein.

Alabama was placed third, between Southern California and Washington State. Southern California was second and Washington State was fourth, even though the boys from the north beat the Trojans. On the basis of the voting, it might be figured that Alabama will win the Rose Bowl game from the Cougars. It might also be figured that Washington State isn't so good, even if it did defeat the Trojans. In California, they are inclined to throw out that team, but the people who waged little on the Cougars collected last same. The preliminary balloting does indicate that football opinion is divided even after the scores have been added.

SOME DISSENT ON IRISH

Aside from the overwhelming majority by which Notre Dame was awarded first place, the result seems a trifle confusing. Fourteen of those who voted thought Southern California better than the Irish. Nine members of the jury placed Alabama ahead of Notre Dame. Of the 233 jury members, there were three who seemed the Cougars the best of the pack. And Utah won the support of two voters over Notre Dame.

Twenty-five members of the jury placed Notre Dame second to their first choice and two jurymen gave the Notre Damses show money. In the total vote, however, Notre Dame got 741 more markers than Southern California.

In the trial-by-jury system, almost anything can happen.

THE WEATHER, ETC.

The New York boxing commission has demanded that Max Schmeling answer the challenge of a certain Boston sailor named Jack Sharkey. These two men, armed in boxing togs, once gave us Public one of the most terrific lacings dear old Gus ever offered. Does the New York boxing commission want some more of the same for Gus? If you know a great deal this winter, you know.

THE STRIBLING CHORUS

Whittier Wins Southern Counties Tourney

SECOND STRING QUINLET SAVES DAY FOR POETS

You've heard about Frank Merriwell and his game-winning exploits if you know anything about sports. Now you're to read a story that goes the marvelous Merriwell one better—in fact four better.

There were FIVE Merriwells in a basketball game at Huntington Beach Saturday night and they won for Whittier high school a Southern Counties tournament championship that once appeared hopelessly lost to Chaffey high school.

The final score, 42-32, does not come close to relating the drama of Whittier's triumph.

Going into the finals against Chaffey's eagles, defending prep champions of Southern California as well as of the Huntington Beach tournament, Coach Don Douglas naturally started his first string quintet—Arrambide, Garman, Chisler, Imboden and Harris. These men had won three impressive victories in earlier rounds and had piled up the amazing average of 53 points a game.

Regulars Replaced But they were helpless against the rangy Ontario boys, Brown, Doll, Meek, Naffel and Gunstream, and in the first period were outscored as well as decisively outplayed.

With the score 13-6 in Chaffey's favor at the end of the first quarter, desperate Coach Douglas yanked his whole first string and sent in five men—Porter for Arrambide, deForrest for Garman, Robinson for Chisler, Richardson for Imboden and Coon for Harris.

The "substitutes" did not muffle their grand and glorious opportunity. Fresh and inspired, they launched a powerful offense that quickly stole the play away from the tall Tigers. With little deForrest hitting the mesh from all angles, they quickly overcame Chaffey's lead and went into a tie just before the half ended. A foul was called just as the sun was fired and Porter sunk it to make the half-time count, 19-18 in the Poets' favor.

New Champion Crowned The Whittier reserves continued their spectacular floor work in the second half and soon swept into a stronger lead. The score was 33-28 at the end of the third period, 42-33 at the windup.

Thus a new Southern Counties tournament champion was crowned. San Diego annexed consolation honors by beating the plucky Huntington Beach five, 33-22, in a preliminary to the Chaffey-Whittier thriller. Eliminated in the semi-finals by Chaffey, 54-5, Huntington Beach was not conceded much of a chance against the strong Hilltoppers but waged a great fight and only went down in the last quarter. The score was tied at half-time and again at the end of the third quarter.

An All-Tournament team was selected by a staff of referees after the Chaffey-Whittier match. Arrambide, Whittier, and deForrest, Whittier, were named forwards. Meek, Chaffey, was picked as center, and Warren, San Diego, and Naffel, Chaffey, as guards.

The lineup:

THE MAULER

Perennially the cry comes for some more of Dempsey. It is hard to forget the left hand that laid them low, and the right that killed. Faintly at first, then increasing in volume like a forest fire, comes the rumor that the original American 100 per cent Dempsey may return to meet Max. His German carbon copy. Did somebody say "counterfeit"? It may be cloudy here, but do not forget that somewhere the sun is always shining.

Earl Mastro Under Knife After Fight

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Earl Mastro, Chicago boxer, was recovering today from an emergency abdominal operation performed here yesterday morning. Doctors said the ailment was caused during a recent fight with Fidel La Barba in Chicago.

Mastro's disorders were aggravated during a four-round bout with Leo Domingo in San Francisco Friday night. The fight was stopped when Domingo was helpless, and Mastro returned here, apparently in good condition.

He will be out of the ring at least three months, Manager Art Winch said.

COUGAR SQUAD REACHES L. A.: TIDE ON WAY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.(UP)—The Washington State college football team, which meets Alabama in the Tournament of Roses game New Year's day, arrived here today to complete its training.

The Cougars reached Glendale at 9:18 a. m., and planned to hold their first workout this afternoon at Tournament Park, where they played their first Tournament of Roses game 15 years ago against Brown.

The Alabama squad will not arrive until tomorrow afternoon. Two other football teams were scheduled to arrive today. They are the Notre Dame All-Stars which play the West-South team in a charity game December 27 and the North Dakota eleven, which plays the Los Angeles Firemen Christmas day.

ALABAMA SQUAD TOURS GRAND CANYON

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 22.—(UP)—Coach Wallace Wade took his Alabama Crimson Tide on a tour of the Grand Canyon.

Coach Wade believed the sight-seeing trip would serve as a workout for the Tide, which meets the undefeated Washington Cougars at Pasadena New Year's day.

He has adopted a pessimistic outlook for the Rose Bowl classic and fears his squad will become overconfident.

"They have a decided edge on us," he said today, and then added "but perhaps we can win."

For the first time in three trips to the Pacific Coast the Alabama team has been made a favorite.

Wade's teams defeated Washington university in 1926 and tied Stanford the following year. This year Wade does not relish the idea of Alabama being a favorite.

BILL ROPER PREDICTS DEATH OF FOOTBALL IN FIVE YEARS UNLESS TRAINING CURTAILED

By COPELAND C. BURG (I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—That college football as it is now conducted not only faces radical changes but may shortly be engaged in a battle for its very existence was indicated today in two fresh attacks on the gridiron pastime.

W. W. (Bill) Roper, former Princeton coach, one of the finest characters that ever gave a "fight talk" to an eleven and a man who is extremely well respected, sees a decline and possible utter collapse of the game if present methods are continued, while Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, cracked things wide open with a recommendation for abolition of gate receipts for college sports.

Roper, who is the man so beloved at Princeton that he inspired a weak and tottering eleven to play a vastly superior Yale squad clear off its feet a few weeks ago, warned in a speech before the Middle States Athletic conference in Philadelphia Saturday that football will die within five years unless the intensive and long training of football was not stopped.

Asks All-Around Program "This business of having six, eight and ten weeks of practice is all wrong; it interferes with other sports," said Roper. "A youth in college should have the right to turn out for the athletics he likes best. There should be an all-around program for the boy."

Dr. Butler, in his annual report this morning, advocated abolishing of gate receipts and establishment of an "Athletic League of Nations" among college to root out professionalism and "other abuses."

"There are some things more important than gate receipts," he said. Dr. Butler suggested that as a substitute for the "gate" that alumni furnish the funds to finance college sports.

Dr. Butler urged the "League of Nations" attempt to put football and other sports on the basis on which rowing is now conducted. The president of Columbia would put the administration of the game in the power of this centralized "league."

It is quite likely that the warning of Roper and the recommendation of Dr. Butler will get some attention at the meeting next week of the National College Athletic association in New York.

Roper predicted a revolt of football players themselves if the intensive grind and ballyhoo of football was continued. One may safely assume that back in his head he was thinking about the rumpus at Penn this fall, when players complained they were treated like "galley slaves."

"If this drudgery is not eliminated in the next five years the player will step aside," said Roper. "He wants to play for pleasure, not be driven. The game may be stopped from inside and not outside if these conditions remain."

NEW GOLF BALL GIVEN O. K. BY CRACK PLAYERS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PASADENA, Dec. 22.—The new golf ball—bigger and lighter—has the approval of the prominent players polled today by the United Press after they had played with it in a major tournament.

Although the new ball—1.68 inches in diameter and 1.55 ounces in weight—does not become official until January 1, it was used in the Pasadena $4000 open tournament which ended Sunday.

The old ball was 1.62 inches in diameter and 1.62 ounces in weight.

Despite the fact that scores were generally higher than was the case in the same tournament last year over the identical course, the new ball was found satisfactory by practically all the prominent players.

Tony Manero, Little Elmsford, N. Y., professional, won first prize of $1000 with a 72-hole total of 287, three strokes over par and seven strokes more than the figure Horton Smith won with in 1929.

Last year 14 players shot 290 or under, whereas this year only four within 290. Most of the professionals agreed that the sudden change from the heavier ball to the lighter one was the main cause of the high scores.

Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., finished second with 289, followed by Herman Barrow, Port Chester, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, Chicago, who tied for third place. Each scored 290.

Only seven times during the four rounds of the tournament was par 71 for 18 holes broken with the new ball. A year ago Horton Smith broke par for 18 holes twice and equalled it on his two rounds.

HUGE AIR MEET

PARIS.—It is expected that representatives of 40 countries will take part in the World Aerial Security meet which is to be held here December 10 to 23. The main purpose of the meeting is to advance safety in the air. Every form of aerial travel, including airplane, seaplane, balloon and dirigible, will be considered and discussed. It is expected that a world safety research laboratory for aircraft will be created here.

Nomads Play Nine Games Next Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 22.—Notre Dame's 1931 football schedule will be limited to nine games—one less than was played during 1930. All of the 1930 opponents except Southern Methodist have been retained with the schedule as follows:

Oct. 2—Indiana at Bloomington.
Oct. 10—Northwestern at Soldier field, Chicago.
Oct. 17—Drake at South Bend.
Oct. 24—Pittsburgh at South Bend.
Oct. 31—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 7—Pennsylvania at South Bend.
Nov. 14—Navy at Baltimore.
Nov. 21—Southern California at South Bend.
Nov. 28—Army at New York.

LAGUNA BEACH, CYPRESS CLOSE SEASON IN TIE

Cypress and Laguna Beach, one-two teams of the Orange County Harbor league which ended its 1930 schedule yesterday, will meet at Cypress next Sunday in a game to determine the champion of the second half of the split season.

Steve Luther's powerful Cypress ensemble, winner of 13 consecutive games in the Sabbath coalition, already has the title sewed up as the Villagers were twice defeated in the first half but there is much second half rivalry stored up between the teams which have not met since early in the fall. They were ranked out of their November date.

Cypress will play a series of independent exhibition games after the Laguna Beach set-to. The champions have arranged to meet the powerful Shell Oilers in Long Beach New Year's day at 2:15. The following Sunday they travel to San Bernardino and on January 11 play in Santa Barbara.

Victor Walker, president of the Harbor league, will award the championship cup next Sunday. Luther also will present his players with individual trophies in appreciation for their efforts.

Final games yesterday were marred by forfeits because of the use of ineligible players. Playing at Cypress, Anaheim beat the Anapamu Ranch, 5-2, in the best game of the day but gave it self up before the contest started, filling its gaps with Cypress players. Cypress massacred Associated Oil, 15-2, in a four-and-a-half inning affair.

Santa Ana defaulted to Huntington Beach which thereby slipped into undisputed possession of third place.

Laguna Beach fans more or less enjoyed an eight-inning farce at the expense of the Olinda club which was squeaked, 28-5, in a game that also was forfeited before it started. Olinda lacked two men and borrowed from the Laguna Beach talent in order to proceed.

ROBOT PILOT

LONDON.—A pilot airplane has been successfully tested here which is said to operate more precisely than the most skilled human flyer. The control depends for its sense of direction and level on a gyroscope driven by compressed air. Any deviation from level flight in a straight course causes the gyroscope to operate valves and pistons which, in turn, manipulate the controls.

FAMED GOLFER SIGNS TO MAKE 26 BROADCASTS

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 22.—(UP)—Bobby Jones announced today he will give a 26-week series of radio lectures on golf, in which he will discuss the great shots of his amateur career, giving instructions to beginners and stress the human side of the game.

The first broadcast will be over the National Broadcasting company's network January 14, from 7 to 7:15 p. m., central standard time, and weekly, thereafter. He has signed a contract with the Lambert Phonograph company, for the microphone series, which will be broadcast from Atlanta.

Instruction for the young beginner, and helpful tips to the middle aged "regular" will be given by Jones, but the instruction will be only a part of the talks. He will tell of his own mistakes, and of his great shots during the long series of championship contests before he came to hold the four major golf trophies of the world.

Mistakes of other great golfers and dazzling bits of play by the same men will be chronicled by the young Atlantian.

"This will be my first experience over the radio," Jones said today, "and I am willing to admit that I am immensely pleased to have this opportunity. There are other games which the millions watch, but golf is the game that millions play, old and young, men and women, and for that reason it has a more direct and more personal appeal. I hope we all have a lot of fun out of it." Not until he recently retired as an amateur, did Jones decide to do any radio broadcasting, despite the many attempts which had previously been made to secure him.

WOLGAST, GENARO TO BOX FOR TITLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Boxing fans whose tastes run to skill and speed rather than to the sight of clumsy heavyweights bouncing hard fists off harder skulls will have their hour Friday when Frankie Genaro meets Midget Wolgast in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

The fight will serve not only to please the more aesthetic customers but also to answer once and for all that most burning of national questions, "who is our fly-weight champion?"

At the present time no one can say for certainty who is, for both Genaro and Wolgast are rated as such by certain bodies. The National Boxing association insists that Genaro is king of the 112-pounders. The New York athletic commission, since March when Wolgast defeated one "Black Bill," has been just as insistent that the little Philadelphian was the ruler.

must have freedom of conscience. "One of our difficulties today is conformity. We don't like to be different. We fear personal criticism. So we all do the same things. We all play Ping Pong, or Tiddie de Winks or Miniature Golf. We all bob our hair or go without suspenders. We all sing the same songs and use the same slang and think the same thoughts and do the same things that everybody else does. The Pilgrim was not so. He thought for himself. He was loyal to what he thought was right. The voice of God in his own soul must be obeyed. We think of him as stern and uncompromising. Perhaps he was. But he had in him the qualities that make great citizens.

"One cannot think of the Pilgrim character apart from religion. He came to this land, not for gold, not for rich natural resources. He came for freedom to worship God. I don't believe that we can develop the type of citizenship we want—a citizenship that is made up of citizens who are loyal to right and truth and conscience—without religion. It is not necessary that we hold the same creeds that the Pilgrims did. But I am quite sure that if we are going to get anywhere in this matter of citizenship we will have to work along the line of religion. Let us think of that tomorrow when it comes church time. No other institution is doing as much for the making of right citizens."

Julia Lathrop

Christmas Assembly
On Wednesday, December 17, the Julia Lathrop student body held a Christmas assembly. The program, which was in charge of Mrs. Bryte, was as follows:

Christmas songs, eighth grade girls; reading, "Just before Christmas," Eleanor Ford; vocal duet, "Cantique de Noel," Wilhelmina Dominguez, Marjorie Johnson; trumpet quartet, Harold Lutes, Robert Kelly, Wendell Gollene and Franklin Munsell; reading, June Morison; quartet, "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," by Eloise Bradley, Barbara Meserve, Marjorie Johnson and June Morgan; vocal solo, Josephine Keeler and Christmas play, ninth grade girls.

Pretty Decorations
The rotunda at Lathrop presented a very festive appearance during the week before the Christmas holidays. Large silver candles with transparent paper backgrounds for the flames, decorated the four sides of the hall, and connected with the center by ropes of greenery. In the center was a stand of evergreen topped by a small Christmas tree, and at the west door, facing the entrance, was a Bethlehem scene. These decorations were prepared by students of Miss Wylie in the art department.

Special Programs
Various classes held Christmas programs as a prelude to the holidays. Miss Rlythe's low seven English students presented a program during the class period on Wednesday with Miss Swales' low seven English students as their guests.

Nolle Harvey, chairman of the program committee, was ably assisted by Geraldine Gilbert and Winifred Gallienne. The numbers were all very carefully selected, and very well done. These were presented as follows:

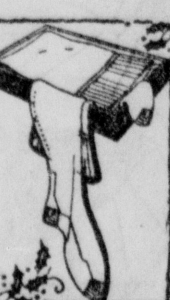

Lathrop school song, by both classes, Virginia Pritchard and Geraldine Gilbert, leaders; reading, Virginia Pritchard; Christmas song, Pauline Chapman; reading, Don Kennedy; chorus, led by Dorothea Dixon; Christmas sayings forming

'THAT IT MIGHT BE FULFILLED IS SUNDAY TOPIC

FULLERTON, Dec. 22.—"That it might be fulfilled" was the subject for the Christmas sermon Sunday morning by the Rev. Francis E. Hawes, pastor of the First Baptist church of Fullerton.

"It has pleased God in all ages to announce in advance things that He proposes to do," the Rev. Mr. Hawes said. "Prophecy is history pre-written and is credible and authentic as any word God has spoken. 2 Tim. 3:16. 'All scripture is given by inspiration of God.'"

All Things Fulfilled
"Any character in the New Testament claiming to be the subject of Old Testament prophecy must fulfill all prophetic utterances concerning himself. Jesus Christ made this claim. He declared that 'all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets and in the psalms, concerning me,' Luke 24:44. Thus He must account for all the prophecies touching the Messiah.

"This He did. Christ did nothing during His earthly ministry which was not written concerning Him in the Old Testament. He left nothing undone which was written of Him. But we must keep in mind the fact that there are two lines of prophecy concerning Him. One line deals with His first advent, the second with His second advent. The prophets did not always distinguish between these themselves; 1 Pet. 1:10, 11.

Some Prophecies
"Let us examine some prophecies: First, His birth. The place, 'And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born. And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judea: for thus it is WRITTEN by the prophet.' Matt. 2:4. Bethlehem was the only place Christ could be born and be the Christ of prophecy. The prophecy referred to here was uttered 710 years before it's fulfillment. And one of the reasons why Jesus was born in Bethlehem was that it might be fulfilled which was written. Concerning His birth of the Virgin, it is written, 'Now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall be with child and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel, which being interpreted is God with us.' Matt. 1:22, 23. This prophecy was given 740 years before it's fulfillment. Isa. 7:14.

"Second: His flight into Egypt. Matt. 2:13-15. Herod's jealousy and hatred were immediate causes for this flight, Matt. 2:13. But why go to Egypt? Could God not protect them in their own land? He had protected His people in other days. Why not now? It was 'that it might be fulfilled which was written.' Matt. 2:14. Seven hundred and forty years before Joseph and Mary went down into Egypt, the prophet had declared that it should be so. Hos. 11:1.

Divine Reason
"Third: His residence at Nazareth. Matt. 2:19-23. Nazareth was the home of Joseph and Mary before their flight to Egypt and it was natural for them to return there. But there was a divine reason. Here it is: 'And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets. He shall be called a Nazarene.' Matt. 2:23.

"Fourth: His later residence in Capernaum. Matt. 4:13. 'And leaving Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum.' Persecution was the cause of His leaving Nazareth. Luke 4:29. But the divine reason was the fulfillment of prophecy. Matt. 4:14. This prophecy is recorded in Isa. 9:1, 2, and was uttered 740 years before it's fulfillment.

"Fifth: His healing ministry. Matt. 8:16, 17. When He saw the sick and suffering all about Him His great heart was moved with compassion and He healed them. But this ministry of healing was proof of His Messiahship. Seven hundred and twelve years before the star hung over Bethlehem's manger, prophecy had declared, 'Surely he hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows.' Isa. 53:4.

Teaching Ministry
"Sixth: His teaching ministry.

His method. We read in Matt. 13:34, 'All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them.' Jesus used this method all during His ministry. Thirty-seven major and 12 lesser parables are recorded. The principal reason for this method is seen in Matt. 13:35, 'That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables; I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.' This is the fulfillment of Psa. 78:8.

"Seven: His entrance into Jerusalem. Matt. 21:1-3 and 6-11. The reason for this is given in Matt. 21:4, 5, 'All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet.' This is the fulfillment of Zech. 9:9 and was given about 487 years before it came to pass.

"Eight: His Crucifixion. Matt. 27:35. 'And they crucified him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet,' Twenty-six Old Testament prophecies were fulfilled on the day that Christ was crucified. Prophecies that were uttered at least a thousand years before the crucifixion. Thus from the cradle to the cross, Christ fulfills prophecy and proves Himself the Messiah of the Old Testament, the Redeemer of a lost world.

"May I close with the words of the angels, 'For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord.' Luke 2:11."

OCEANVIEW

It was decided at the Oceanview Parent Teacher association meeting Wednesday that the society should purchase a Christmas tree to be planted on the school grounds. The tree planting will be held shortly after the re-opening of the school term on January 5.

Various phases of the P.-T. A. work were discussed in the meeting and it was announced that the next study circle meeting would be held January 6 at the home of Mrs. R. A. Shostag.

The fifth grade mothers were hostesses at Wednesday's meeting, which was attended by 43 women. There was a piano solo by Edna Van Meter; the song, "Whispering Hope," was sung by the P.-T. A. sextette, a newly organized musical group composed of Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Vernon Hill, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. John Stinson, Mrs. Daisy Fox, Mrs. C. E. Gilmore.

Two delightful original Christmas poems were read, one being by Mrs. C. E. Pratt, one by Mrs. David Russell. Refreshments of jello salad, cheese wafers and coffee were served by the hostess group. Mrs. David Russell was program leader of the day.

A P.-T. A. chorus is to be organized at once and the first meeting is to be held the evening of January 6, following choir practice at the church at Wintersburg.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

WORLD SAVIOR IS TOPIC OF PASTOR'S TALK

Basing his sermon on the text "Go, make disciples of all nations," the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church discussed for his congregation yesterday morning the subject "A World Saviour."

"For more than 1900 years people have lived proclaiming the good news from heaven," the pastor declared. "It is good news to all kinds and classes of people. No other being can compare with Jesus. The world is honoring Christ today as never before. One day of the week is set aside in His honor and His birthday is observed throughout the world."

"The man who makes things can control and operate them. So God has the right to rule the world which He created. Jesus demonstrated control of natural forces in the storm on Galilee and in healing the sick and afflicted."

"He is a world Saviour because no one could ever convict Him of sin. He is the only one to go unchallenged. Many of the great leaders of old, Abraham, David and Moses, were regarded by their people as saviors, but they themselves had need of a greater Saviour."

"The man who has a great purpose in his life will rise steadily above his fellows. Jesus had a great purpose that lifted Him above all. He came to save humanity and the world from sin. No other ever did that. He came to reveal the love of God and to bring peace, prosperity and happiness. Christ will help you solve all your problems."

"Let us not forget our Saviour on Christmas day. Think of Him and what we owe Him and others because of Him."

CHRIST BRINGS JOY TO WORLD, SAYS MINISTER

Pointing out that the spirit of rejoicing which filled the hearts of the shepherds that mysterious night long ago may be the lot of all those who give themselves fully to Christ, the Rev. John M. Barnhart, pastor of the First Methodist church of Huntington Beach, preached yesterday on the subject "Christ Brings Joy." His text was from Luke 2:20 "And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God."

"The simple trusting heart receives the joy and gladness which are coveted by all," he declared. "God has chosen the poor, not because He is partial to the poor, but because they are more likely to be in a state of mind which can hear the angel song. The joy this is perpetual is that which originates with the pure in heart."

"In vain does the world seek material abundance as the source of happiness. The homes and hearts of the selfish rich are just as miserable as the selfish poor. Christ in the heart is the guarantee that happiness and the spirit of rejoicing will possess and lead us throughout the year."

"The gifts of gold and frankincense and myrrh symbolized the best of life to the wise men. To follow the star throughout the year means to think pure thoughts, do unselfish deeds, cherish kind feelings even for our enemies. In this way we cannot escape happiness and pure delight."

"This world is a mirror in which each sees himself. The smiling face is met with a smile; the gentle word with a soft answer; the plaster of paris countenance with coldness and indifference; suspicion with mistrust; a grouch with ill-humor."

"We may all catch the spirit of rejoicing which filled the hearts of the shepherds that mysterious night in the long ago, by giving ourselves fully to Him whose coming into this world resulted in mighty changes of thought and forms of life."

PASTOR URGES GIFT FOR GOD ON CHRISTMAS

Members of the Men's Community Bible class who were present at the service in the Fox West Coast theater yesterday morning heard an appeal from the class teacher, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, to remember Christ at Christmas and make a gift to God. He asserted that by giving their lives to God this Christmas could be made the finest that had ever been experienced.

The lesson subject, "A Christmas Thought," was discussed by the teacher after a scripture reading, which was the story of the Nativity, by J. W. Watkins. The Rev. Mr. Buchanan said in part: "Christmas day now is used quite differently than it was in the early days. It is now surrounded by commercial thought and activity. The idea of giving to others is fine—it was started when God gave His Son to us. If the great sum that has been saved in the nation for Christmas is saved for unselfish giving, it is all right."

"Some men who give away millions, do it for their own honor and have ground it out of their workmen. They have not been actuated in their giving by the love of Christ. This type of giving does not benefit mankind as it could. It is not what Jesus came for."

"How shall we give of our money and time at this Christmas season? It takes wisdom, prayer and thought to know how to give. We should first know about our financial condition. Some people give costly gifts who have no business doing it. Buy only according to your ability. Women prize simple gifts that are expressions of true love."

"God expects us to give something to Him at Christmas. He has given us all that we have of material things and He has given us love and integrity and manhood. The greatest gift you can make is your life for God. Nothing is greater or finer and it will mean the finest and happiest Christmas you have ever had."

Special music yesterday was furnished by Miriam Adamson, soprano, who sang "The Holy City" and "Morning." Her numbers were greatly appreciated by the class.

The regular business meeting of the class will be held next Tuesday night at the First Christian church at 7 p. m.

CHRISTMAS IS CHURCH THEME FOR SERVICES

The spirit and message of Christmas furnished the theme for all services of the Church of the Nazarene yesterday. The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the church, delivered the morning sermon from the text, "Unto you is born, in the city of David, a Saviour which is Christ the Lord." Evelyn Harding, soprano, and Whitcomb Harding, tenor, sang "The Message," from the cantata, "The Light Eternal," (Petrie). These young people, children of the pastor, arrived yesterday from Bethany, Okla., where they are attending college, to spend the Christmas season with their parents.

"The announcement of the coming of Jesus," said the Rev. Mr. Harding, "was made to one of the lowest classes of society. It seems that through the centuries the highest revelations of God and the most generally clear spiritual discernment has been among the poor of the earth. The angel did not appear to the rich, the powerful, or the self-sufficient. This most important declaration did not come to the Pharisees or to the priests, nor to the great and powerful Roman machine. The heavenly messenger spoke to those of simple life and strong faith."

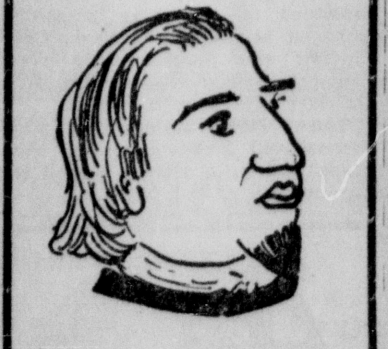

"Unto you is born a Saviour," is the most glorious news the world has ever known. And this Saviour is able to save to the uttermost. He can save, not only from our actual transgressions, but as well, from the inborn depravity in the human heart. Furthermore, Jesus is not to be treated as an occasional gift which we admire at the Christmas season, but is to be the constant companion of His disciples."

"The divine Christ of Bethlehem is not limited to His phases of blessing. Whatever you need you can find in Jesus. Have you burdens? Jesus is the great burden-bearer. Have you sorrows? Jesus is the world's comforter. Are you worried and tense? Jesus can give you rest. Are you thirsty? He is the water of life. Hungry? He is the bread of heaven. Are you friendless? The Christ of the manger is your divine Friend."

A musical prelude was given at the evening service by the choir under the direction of Hugh C. Benner, assistant pastor of the church. The following numbers were included: "Arise, Shine, for Thy Light is Come," (Day), choir; "O Night of Holy Memory," (Wilson), quartet with soprano obligato by Mrs. U. E. Harding; "Cantique de Noel," trombone solo, Hugh C. Benner; "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," (Speakes), choir. Accompaniments were played by Mrs. Hugh C. Benner.

REMEMBERING DIVINITY OF CHRIST ADDS TO CHRISTMAS SEASON JOY, PASTOR STATES

Stressing the divinity of Christ and the importance of remembering this fact at Christmas time so that the joy of the season may extend throughout the year, Dr. Cecil M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, preached yesterday on "The Secret of Christmas Joy." His text was "And when I saw Him I fell at His feet, as dead," Rev. 1:17. He spoke in part as follows:

"It is customary at Christmas time to present the human aspects of Christ's earthly ministry. To speak particularly of His birth in the manger, of His life in the carpenter's shop, of His life of temptation and His sorrow, of His suffering vividly before us His humanity. But it is not His human greatness that brings abiding joy to our hearts at Christmas time and enables us to carry the Christmas good cheer with us throughout the year; in fact, there is danger of so emphasizing the beautiful traits of His human personality as to obscure if not destroy His real divine greatness."

"A recent article in one of our magazines glorifies the manhood of Jesus in a Christmas article. It would lead you to believe that He was worthy of our worship. However, the writer frankly says at the close, 'No, I do not think He was divine, but I love Him.' Of course, anyone who sincerely loves the Lord Jesus is glad for any genuine praise of Him, provided it is reverent and not in an attempt to destroy faith in His real divinity. 'There are two kinds of greatness—human greatness and divine greatness. There is a greatness like that of Caesar and Napoleon, like that of Socrates and Shakespeare. But there is another greatness which belongs to Christ alone. It is the greatness of deity, like God himself. It is this sort of greatness that makes Christ different, and makes Christmas a different sort of a birthday celebration from that of a Washington or a Lincoln."

"As we turn through the New Testament pages only Matthew and Luke make any extended reference to His earthly origin. The bulk of the New Testament neglects any reference to the early life and ministry of Jesus. Paul says 'even though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now know we Him so no more.'"

SUGGESTS WAY OF UTILIZING CHRISTMAS DAY

Declaring that Christmas day may be utilized in making life richer and fuller, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached yesterday morning on "Footprints to and from Bethlehem's Manger," in which he asserted that these footprints are a challenge to make Christmas an experience of reading God's signs, seeking His son, submitting to Him and sharing the joy that follows. He said in part: "Christmas of 1930 may be just another day on the calendar, or it may be a transforming experience. If the former, of course, life goes on unaltered. But if the latter, then Christmas means the lifting of life to a higher level and giving it a richer quality."

"The first Christmas was a great experience both for shepherds and for the wise men. The four elements of that original Christmas were first that these men were seekers of God's gift, submitted in worship and loyalty to the Christ-child, and then went out to share their new-found joy with their fellows. Thus anyone who comes this year anywhere near the manger of Bethlehem can see and read very plainly the message of the footprints to and away from that manger. Their challenge is still there to make Christmas an experience of reading God's signs, seeking His Son, submitting in loyalty to Him and sharing with our fellows the joy that comes therefrom.

"Many perchance have known that experience. But the footprints to and from the manger summon us today to make the pilgrimage again and again to Bethlehem to come away with a larger and fuller truth. In our continued selfishness they call us to make our way to the Christ to learn before Him a greater love and unselfishness. In our failure to live the life of the cross they call us to that consecration that will inscribe the cross more deeply upon our daily character and conduct. In our lack of the forgiving spirit they call us to Bethlehem to learn to forgive from the Master of forgiveness. And in the sorry chaos of our human relationships those footprints point the way to the hallowed spot where men can learn to live together in harmony and accord, love and goodwill in all their circles of endeavor."

"Thus Christ may be born again and we become His messengers to impart the glad tidings of what Christ may put into human hearts."

Manager Of Bank At Costa Mesa for 7 Years Resigns

COSTA MESA, Dec. 22.—Roy L. Davis has resigned his position as manager of the Bank of Balboa, Costa Mesa branch, after having served for the past seven years. Prior to coming here Davis was connected with the Citizens' National bank in Riverside for 16 years, starting in as office boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis and children have left for a Christmas vacation to be spent with Mr. Davis' brother and family at Phoenix.

TELLS OF NEED TO APPRECIATE GIFT OF JESUS

"All Room Taken," was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday by the Rev. J. K. Soper at the Full Gospel Assembly, corner Forest and West Third streets, his text being the second chapter of St. Luke.

"As there was no room in the inn for Jesus, even so many 'heart doors' are closed to Jesus, being occupied by the cares of life, pleasure of this world, deceitfulness of riches, forms and ceremonies of worship," the pastor asserted. "They have crowded Jesus out of their lives. Oh! that people might know that Jesus came to seek and save that which was lost, rich and poor, high and low. Jesus is no respecter of people. Willingly he left heaven's splendor to come to earth to be a Saviour to all. Jesus knew that the foxes would have holes to live in and the birds would have nests, but He had no place to lay His head. Oh! that the world might appreciate God's gift to us, even His only begotten Son."

It was announced that the Christmas program is to be held on Tuesday night, starting at 7:30. It will open with an overture by the orchestra, followed by Scripture reading, prayer, recitations, exercises, songs, and special numbers from the choir and orchestra. He asked all to bring groceries along to put in the "good cheer baskets," to be distributed to the less fortunate.

Comus Club Members Make Merry Around Christmas Tree

One of the smartest affairs of the holiday season was the annual formal Christmas dance given by Comus club members last night week in the Legion hall, Orange. Decorations were in keeping with the current festivities, and were centered around two large Christmas trees, beautifully decked and covered with gifts provided by the members present.

Highlights of the evening were the men's tug dance and the women's choice, special, and proceeds from the sales of the two will be used for charity work. Music for the affair was provided by an eight-piece orchestra, acclaimed by many as the best melody group ever to play for the Comus club.

The vivid-hued and graceful gowns worn by the women present found a perfect background in the holiday decorations. To climax the charming affair a grand march was held around the Christmas trees, and the gifts, which proved to be clever toys, were sources of much amusement. Some of the members were assured that even children could not have derived more genuine enjoyment from the presents than they did. Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Huber and Dr. and Mrs. A. Karl Loerch Jr. were hosts for the evening, and presided at the trees during the gift session.

Students Share Holiday Party In Peek Home

Piano pupils of Ione Tunison Peek, together with their mothers, shared in a most delightful Christmas party yesterday afternoon in the Peek studio at 1612 North Broadway. A glittering holiday tree was an interesting feature, and served as the setting for a presentation of dainty gifts to everyone assembled.

During the afternoon a program was given, with members of the Rhythm band accompanying pianists present. Miss Glenn Jean Deardorff gave readings. Students present included Kathryn Mather, Harry and Fred Krohl, Patty Whitson, Rosemary and June Eldest, John Henderson, Barbara Tucker, Arthur Beard, Mary Ashmore, Mary and Peggy Crittenden, Milton McLean, Mary Tubach, Ansel Watson, Dorothy Flintham, Alice Anthony, Damaris Peek, Glenn Jean Deardorff, Betty Mellenthin, Hubert Earl, and Harriett and Marion Riley.

Native Daughters

One hundred and twenty-five Native Daughters and some of their families gathered Saturday evening in the Knights of Columbus hall for a turkey dinner. The delectable menu was served at tables strewn with holly berries and green leaves and decked with tall red tapers. There was a prettily decorated Christmas tree to provide atmosphere for the gift exchange of the evening. An enjoyable program followed, and included musical numbers by a group of children, and community singing. Dancing to radio music was enjoyed as a conclusion to the pleasant affair.

Wedding In Hollywood Will Be of General Interest Here

Of warm interests to a host of friends in this city where the bride spent her childhood and girlhood years, was the wedding at high noon on Saturday, December 20, of Mrs. Olive Manwaring of Hollywood and Joseph Delma Le Blanc, also of Hollywood.

The ceremony found a beautiful setting in the home of the bride, 113 North Gardner street, where quantities of graceful ferns were used with pompon chrysanthemums and gladioluses in sounding the prevailing decorative harmony of yellow and green. Preceding the ceremony, John D. Warren, KJH artist, sang "Evening Song" by Olmstead, and "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, with his wife, Mary Ardath Warren, at the piano. Mrs. Warren remained at the instrument to play the Wedding March from Liebergrin as the party entered the room.

The Rev. A. F. Mosley, pastor of Hollywood First M. E. church, read the marriage service, for which the bride was quite lovely in an ecru net and lace gown with which her great cluster of yellow roses, centered with orchids and sprayed with pale yellow sweet peas, harmonized perfectly. She wore a triple strand of pearls shading from cream into rose tints, the gift of Mr. Le Blanc.

Miss Isabel Lopez attended her sister as maid of honor, and was smartly gowned in orchid and green chiffon, carrying a formal bouquet of yellow and orchid sweet peas. Little Betty Nan Manwaring, in a bouffant frock of apple green chiffon, and carrying a tiny French bouquet preceded her mother to the altar where Mr. Le Blanc was waiting, attended by his best man, Alphonse Fages.

There were over 50 guests assembled for the nuptials and the wedding breakfast which followed, many of them being co-workers with the bride in the Hollywood schools, where she has taught for several years. Horace Fine, uncle of the new Mrs. Le Blanc, and his daughters, Miss Cleora Fine and Mrs. Robert Lufbery, were the only Santa Anans present.

The prevailing pale green and yellow decorative theme was apparent in details of the bridal breakfast including the three-tiered wedding cake with its small bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Blanc left early in the afternoon for St. Catherine's on Catalina island, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mrs. Le Blanc wore a smart ensemble costume in black transparent velvet with touches of real lace. They will make their home in the film city where Mr. Le Blanc is master mechanic with the Hollywood Packard garage.

Sewing Club Members Hold Meeting With Mrs. Elliott

Baskets of poinsettias adorned the home of Mrs. R. Earl Elliott, 1212 North Ross street, yesterday, when she was hostess to members of the Stitch and Chatter club at their Christmas party.

Roll call was responded to by each member relating an interesting Christmas experience. A tree and gift exchange were enjoyed. Late in the afternoon, the hostess, assisted by her two daughters, Mrs. Lauraine Bove and Miss Grace Elliott, served a tempting refreshment course on individual trays.

Those present, other than Mrs. Elliott and her daughters, were Mesdames Josie Antisdell, Harry Blackburn, Ralph Crane, Harold Dawson, Harry Johnston, Oscar Martin, Belle Rogers, Allie Ward, Wm. M. Anderson, J. W. Hancock, Z. E. West, Walter Osment and the Misses Miriam Adamson, Pauline Graham, and Bessie Margaret Potter. Guests of the club were Mrs. Ryan, and the Misses Evelyn Martin, Rita Hancock, Idell Johnson, and Ruth Swanson.

Neighborhood Club Has Gathering

Friday's meeting of the Neighborhood club in the home of Mrs. R. E. McBurney, 825 Garfield street, was a delightful one, with poinsettias and cotoneaster used to express the Christmas theme.

The hours sped by quickly with sewing, and each guest told an amusing Christmas incident that occurred in her childhood.

Delicious refreshments were served on trays. Those sharing Mrs. McBurney's hospitality were Mesdames G. D. Campbell, William Dietrich, Joe Haupter, Harvey Groover, Fletcher Zornes, J. J. Thompson, I. W. Bouldin, Frank Calkins, David Caldwell, Harry Freeman and I. W. Bouldin Jr.

Miss Lucille Bermann Has Lovely Party For Officers

Officers who have served Santa Ana Bethel Job's Daughters for the term which will be concluded Friday, December 26, with installation in Fullerton, were delightfully entertained recently when their queen, Miss Lucille Bermann, was hostess in her home at 521 East Walnut street.

The home was a veritable bower of flowers and Christmas cheer, with a glistening tree as the central figure. A true holiday atmosphere was found in the tables which hung from lofty places, and had as a background a profusion of ferns and smilax. Bouquets of poinsettias, velvety roses, and fragrant sweet peas added their notes of color to the occasion as did the red and green garlands which were draped across the rooms.

Bridge was played at tables bearing red and green covers. To conclude the pleasant affair an appetizing refreshment course was served, and included sandwiches, coffee, jello with whipped cream, and cookies and wafers. Miss Bermann was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. E. Bermann, her sister, Miss Millicent Bermann, and Mrs. John Thiesenshusen. Each of the guests was presented with an attractive futuristic vase filled with candy, on behalf of their hostess.

Those sharing the pleasant hospitality were the Misses Elizabeth Smith, Harriett Morris, Virginia Cogan, Florine Pollock, Thelma Shippe, Janet Forbes, Virginia Mustel, Vera Getty, Mary Nau, Maxine Decker, Eloise Schier, Thelma Wright, Virginia Bishop, Ruth Baker, Margaret Ellen Sawyer, Marian Peters and Jennie Clark.

The installation of officers the evening after Christmas will be a joint one with Fullerton Bethel, and with Miss Bermann as installing officer. She will put in office, Miss Elizabeth Smith as new queen, and her corps of assistants. A dance will follow, to which the public is invited.

Ernest Kellogg Post And Auxiliary Join In Festivity

Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ernest L. Kellogg post and auxiliary No. 1680 held their Christmas dinner Friday evening in the Knights of Pythias hall. One hundred and fifty members and their families were present to share in the delectable pot-luck feast.

The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. Katherine Reagen, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Seidel, Cio Showalter, Mary Adrain, Alice Gay, Mrs. Du Bois, Mrs. Hopkins, Lillian Hubbard and Mrs. Schlick.

Tables were prettily decorated with holly berries, and carried out the theme evidenced in the rooms where a large Christmas tree was in prominence. Mrs. Randall was in charge of the decorations. Adding to the pleasure of the affair was the knowledge that a number of the needy will be well supplied with food and necessities, for one corner of the room was piled high with vegetables, potatoes, canned fruit, and other edibles.

At 8 o'clock a program of songs, readings and dances was enjoyed. Singing was led by Mrs. Walter Ross, of Anaheim, who also sang solos numbers, accompanied by Miss Virginia Long, also of Anaheim. Other interesting features were readings by Bobbie Udyke of Fullerton, violin numbers by Margaret Robertson and vocal numbers by Delmore Udyke.

The remainder of the program was in charge by Miss Vera Getty, assistant to Miss Claire Coutant. Four little girls, dressed in fairy-like costumes took part in the "Baby Follies." Other dances were acrobatic, pirate, and clog dances.

At the close of the program the lights were turned low, a great stamping and rattling was heard, and Santa Claus made his appearance bearing a huge pack on his back. While children and adults, too, gathered around him and the Christmas tree, he distributed baskets of candy.

Clever Holiday Affair Is Event of Saturday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Azus were hosts at a charming holiday affair Saturday night when they entertained in their apartments at 911 West Fourth street. Christmas cheer was evidenced in the brightly decorated rooms, and in the tiny trees which formed a background for the evening's entertainment.

This bit of decorated greenery bore a joke gift for each of the guests.

Bridge was played and when scores were added on the clever little tallies, W. Maxwell Burke and Frank Kalka were awarded desirable presents as first and low scores. The delectable refreshment course was served at a late hour, and included ice cream roll centered with a red Christmas bell, fancy cookies and coffee.

Those sharing the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Azus were Mr. and Mrs. W. Maxwell Burke, Mrs. Amel McBroom, Mrs. Thelma Patterson, Miss Naomi Keller and Frank Kalka.

Pegasus Club Employs Yule Theme For Its Program Features

Pegasus club members held their Christmas meeting and program recently when they met in the home of Mrs. C. C. Fuller at 719 South Parton street. A gift exchange was a feature of the day. As the opening number Mrs. Frank was read a poem, "The Holy Mother," and was followed by Mrs. Fannie Lash reading a poem, "Christmas."

Miss Marjorie Lusk gave a child's story, "The Christmas Shared" and Mrs. Earl Morris read "Little White Shoes." "The Old Christmas Tree" was read by Mrs. Frank Lansdown, while Mrs. Caleb Jackson gave a poem, "Lullabies." Mrs. Walter Foote read a poem, "Keeping Christmas," and Mrs. Harry Havelle read "Going Home for Christmas."

Mrs. Roy Winchester presented three poems, "Facing the Light," "A Life Lesson" and "To My Mother." Mrs. Bruce Switzer lent variety to the entertainment with an article by Kathleen Norris, "Mystery of Christmas." Mrs. George Bond read a poem, "Christmas Bells," and Mrs. Fuller concluded with a reading, "Song of the Market Place."

Santa Ana Chapter Has Many Guests at Open Installation

Guests from all sections of the Southland assembled in the I. O. O. F. temple Friday night, attracted by the open installation of officers of Santa Ana chapter, Order of Eastern Star, when Mrs. Elizabeth Kloess and Henry Meyer were placed in the chief executives' chairs.

Potted plants arranged on pedestals in a broad low formation, vied with the Yuletide greens and garlands in forming an effective background for the new officers in their beautiful gowns, and made the scene one of brilliancy and charm. Elmer Smith, a past patron, served as master of ceremonies, while the installing staff consisted of the retiring worthy matron and patron, Mrs. Elton Roehm and Charles Pritchard, assisted by Mrs. Marie Fowler, organist; Mrs. Ross Smith, marshal, and Mrs. Madeline Pritchard, chaplain, and, at special points in the ceremony, by the "twin deputies," Mrs. Stella Schultz, deputy grand matron of Department 56, and Mrs. Amber Burke of Department 5. Mrs. Elizabeth Jernigan, William J. Dean, who presided at the altar when the matron and patron took their oaths of office, and Mrs. Mildred Meyer, who presented her husband for installation as patron.

One of the most beautiful features of the ceremony was when the star points, kneeling at the altar, placed their garlands there as the Mustel trio played "Silent Night." Other program features included songs by LaRue Pippes Mayer, one dedicated to the new matron, Mrs. Kloess; with Miss Carrie Seaton at the piano; a group of musical readings by Miss Margaret Gaebbe with Miss Eunice Hoffman as accompanist, several numbers by the Mustel trio, the Misses Virginia, Nathalie and Evelyn, and a violin solo by Miss Nathalie.

Officers installed were Mrs. Elizabeth Kloess, worthy matron; Henry Meyer, worthy patron; Mrs. Winnie Dean, associate matron; George Shippe, worthy patron; Mrs. Pearl Lyman, secretary; Mrs. Eva Wyckoff, treasurer; Mrs. Jennie Shippe, conductress; Mrs. Irma Folger, associate conductress; Mrs. Elizabeth Park, chaplain; Mrs. Hazel Golden, marshal; Mrs. Marie Fowler, organist; Mrs. Hazel Irwin, warder; E. Harold Irwin, sentinel; the star points, Mrs. Nell Spaulgh, Ada; Mrs. Sue Henry, Ruth; Mrs. Mary Adrian, Esther; Mrs. Della Maude Ryan, Martha, and Mrs. Irene Willey, Electa.

Mrs. Marie Fowler, who had been elected organist for the coming year, presided for the musical accompaniment to the ceremonial, so Mrs. Flora Bruns served as her proxy and went through the initiatory rites for her.

An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation of the past matron's jewel to Mrs. Roehm, who has completed a very successful year in office. The jewel was set in an Eastern Star ring, and was partly the gift of the chapter, and partly that of her husband, Elton R. Roehm. Its presentation was made by her sister, Mrs. W. R. Sylvester, while Elton Roehm presented the past patron's jewel to Charles Pritchard.

Plans were completed for tomorrow night's meeting, the first under the new regime, and members will be asked to substitute a silver offering for needy families, for their customary gift exchange.

Mrs. A. Erickson Is Hostess to Flying Needle Club

Although Flying Needle club members make every meeting interesting, that of December was especially so, for they made it the happiest of Christmas celebrations, beginning with the wonderful holiday dinner served at mid-day by their hostess, Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson of 101 West Sixth street. The hostess had culled the purple violets from her garden to use on the table and their fragrant petals provided a colorful effect with the Yuletide decorations used elsewhere.

A series of games in the afternoon took the place of the usual needlework, and Mrs. Bergendoff secured the pretty hostess prize. The annual gift exchange was one of the merriest features of the day, as each one present discovered the identity of the unknown member who had showered her with friendly attentions throughout the year.

There were several guests present to share Mrs. Erickson's hospitality and the prevailing Yuletide joys, and included Mrs. Bippus of Chicago, who arrived recently to spend the winter in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Erickson; Mrs. Jack Shaw, Miss Clara Belle Snee and Orville Miller, while Flying Needle members were Mesdames Erroll Barnes, Frank Brown, F. W. Bergendoff, Delbert Johnson, William Kintz, Bernard Snee, Miss Verena Bailey and the hostess.

Mrs. Ballard Has Lovely Holiday Party

Dispensing Christmas hospitality to a group of close friends, Mrs. R. L. Ballard of 2515 North Main street was hostess at a lovely party yesterday. Decorations included red paper candles with green and silver foliage and were the hand work of Mrs. Daisy McGee.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon, and a hand embroidered dresser scarf was awarded to Mrs. S. M. Higgins as holder of high score. A pink hand painted powder jar was presented Mrs. Daisy McGee for scoring second high. Refreshments of chicken salad, mince pie, coffee and wafers concluded the pleasant afternoon.

Invited guests were Mesdames Fred Sutherland, Roy V. Ivins, Daisy McGee, Leland Eubank, J. W. McElree, Santa Ana; William Batt, George Merriman, E. D. Pratt, J. Collins, S. M. Higgins, Orange; and S. A. Sisson, Anaheim.

Fidels Party

Over 50 members of the Fidels class of the First Baptist church were present Thursday to enjoy the Christmas party held in the home of Mrs. John Farwell at 506 East Fifth street.

Bowls of sweet peas in pastel tints were used throughout the home. In the living room a Christmas tree was the setting for the gift exchange.

David Graham, Chester Stearns and Billy Robinson, dressed as tin soldiers, gave a drill and recitation. Miss Ruth Jenkins gave two humorous readings, and Mrs. C. J. Rowland related a Christmas story.

Mrs. P. H. Peters was presented with a lovely cake in observance of her birthday. She responded with a brief history of her life, relating how she was born in England and came to New York when a small girl, coming to Santa Ana a number of years ago, she became identified with the Fidels class. Mrs. Harriett Earl, class teacher, and Mrs. O. S. Catland, assistant teacher were presented gifts on behalf of the class. Concluding the program, the class sang Christmas carols with Mrs. R. Earl Elliott at the piano.

The hostess, assisted by Mesdames Will McMurphy, Carl Peterson and R. J. Haines served refreshments.

Louis Bittle Observes Birthday Anniversary With Jolly Affair

The fifteenth birthday anniversary of John Louis Bittle was observed in delightful fashion Thursday evening when his mother, Mrs. Louis F. Bittle, entertained at a merry party at the Bittle home, 1316 West Washington avenue.

Lovely winter flowers provided the floral background for the evening's diversion of "cootie," which caused much merriment. At the conclusion of the game, Walter Hendrie was found to be high scorer, Bud Elliott, second and Waldo Smith, low. Following a number of other games, the honor guest was presented with a selection of lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served at a late hour and included a decorated birthday cake and ice cream.

Children present other than the honor guest, John Louis Bittle, and his brothers, Billy and Horace Bittle, were Walter Hendrie, Bud Elliott, Waldo Smith, Alfred Halderman, Lester Bayne, Asa Hoffman Jr., Roy Patton, Arthur Salisbury, Eugene Benson of Huntington Beach, Miss Connie Ridgeway of Richfield, Thomas Lacy, Melvin Lyon, George Bissett and Chester Salisbury.

There were several guests present to share Mrs. Erickson's hospitality and the prevailing Yuletide joys, and included Mrs. Bippus of Chicago, who arrived recently to spend the winter in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Erickson; Mrs. Jack Shaw, Miss Clara Belle Snee and Orville Miller, while Flying Needle members were Mesdames Erroll Barnes, Frank Brown, F. W. Bergendoff, Delbert Johnson, William Kintz, Bernard Snee, Miss Verena Bailey and the hostess.

Facial Pack and Pore Cleanser

One of my readers writes that for years she has used egg white as a facial pack and pore cleanser but wishes that I would publish directions for my way of using this face pack. I will be glad to, although this is about the umpteenth time I have done so.

This egg pack is the ancestor of all face packs in existence... I wouldn't be surprised if Eve used it after she and her Adam were thrown out of the Garden of Eden; quite likely after she saw her reflection in a sunlit pool of water and noticed how fast the wrinkles were coming. This is the way I go about it.

Separate yolk and white, beat each one. Pin a towel around the head so that the hair line is covered, then with a milk soap and warm water wash the face well, working the lather well into the skin, follow by two rinses in tepid water and a third with cold water. Pat the skin dry, and pat a thin film of the egg yolk onto the face and neck. Allow this to dry and then pat with a film of beaten egg white patted on with finger tips.

While this application is drying, it is best to lie down thoroughly relaxed, the head quite low so that the pull of the drying mask will not pull the facial muscles out of shape. If wished a second layer of the egg white may be patted on and allowed to dry.

Go to sleep if possible, while this is under way; when it is applied have some one do it for you, or have the egg white where you can reach out and dip fingertips in it without turning or breaking the drying mask. To take it off just use the face gently with tepid water, using the hands. Pat the skin dry, rub in a little skin food, with make-up to follow an hour later.

The egg yolk does this for the skin—feeds it with the oil it contains, at the same time it gently starts the masking process, consequently the succeeding applications can better be tolerated by sensitive skins. Blackheads disappear like magic under this treatment, the skin is toned up and is much softer and delicate after treatment.

Sore Throats and Coughs

Quickly Relieved By This Safe Prescription

Here's a doctor's prescription called Thoxine that is really throat insurance. Its success is due to its quick double action. With the very first swallow it soothes the sore throat and stops the coughing. It goes direct to the internal cause.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly it contains nothing harmful, and is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable. Put up ready for use in 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Your money back if not satisfied. Sold by McCoy Drug Co. (Adv.)

Joan Peers and Richard Cromwell, the stars in "Tol'able David," which comes to the Fox Broadway theater today for a four-day run. The picture has proven a sensation throughout the country where it has been shown and Cromwell has been called the greatest "find" of the year.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Panache
2 cups brown sugar
1-3 cup white corn syrup
2-3 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
2-3 cup coffee cream
Small pinch of soda and salt
1 cup chopped pecan meats

A good recipe for candy is always timely, whether it is in August or December, so this one has a logical excuse for appearing at this time.

Put 2 tablespoons of butter to melt in a sauce pan, rubbing it around the sides of the pan first. When the butter has melted put in the two sugars, the corn syrup, cream and soda. Stir constantly while the sugar is dissolving and the mixture heating, bring to boiling point, and continue boiling until a little will make a soft ball when dropped in water.

Stir occasionally to prevent burning and don't worry if it seems to look curdled, the after beating takes care of that. Remove from the fire, set the sauce pan where it will cool (do not stir) and when it is settling, add the salt and vanilla and beat hard to make it creamy and grainy of texture.

If you have a piece of plate glass, rinse it in cold water, turn the panoches onto it and knead well. When firm knead in the chopped nuts, mould into bar or thin loaf shape, and when cold, cut into squares.

There are about 3500 energy calories in this recipe. Count the pieces to get the value of each square.

This week the leaflet I am offering free on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope is on a subject near to the heart of many women who read this column, and that is the care of the hair and scalp. To be exact, this leaflet tells in detail how to give yourself a first hand HOT OIL SHAMPOO. Look for more information on this subject each day this week.

Corn Chowder, an inexpensive and nourishing meal, will be the recipe for tomorrow's lesson.

CHURCH STAGES BENEFIT SHOW HERE TONIGHT

"Mystic" Clayton, one of the best known mind readers in the country, whose mail for one year totaled almost 80,000 letters from admirers and persons asking questions concerning the supernatural, returns to Santa Ana for a return engagement.

He will be seen at the Fox West Coast theater in just one performance, at 8:30 p. m. today. The performance is a benefit show, the proceeds of which will go to the Santa Ana branch of the National Federal Spiritual Science church. It was through the church that "Mystic" Clayton was returned to Santa Ana.

The performance will be something rarely seen here. The mystic will demonstrate various phases of occult sciences including crystal gazing, independent writing and clairvoyance and his act is said to be one of the truly remarkable acts of its kind.

Tickets for the show have been on sale among the persons of the Science church here for the past several days and a full house is expected to be present.

The appearance of "Mystic" Clayton is in conjunction with the regular Monday show at the Fox West Coast theater. The feature picture for today is "Rogue of the Rio Grande," starring Myrna Loy, Raymond Hatton and Jose Bohr. It is the story of a Mexican bandit who steals from the rich to give to the poor and who after almost being tracked to his lair, turns on his enemies in a new manner, bringing the picture to a startling finish.

Tickets On Sale For New Year's Annual Show Here

Tickets are now on sale for the big New Year's Midnight show, to be staged at the Fox Broadway theater starting late on the night of December 31, and carrying on until the wee hours of the first day of the new year.

As usual the show to be held here will probably be the biggest that has come to Santa Ana in the past year. There will be eight acts of high class vaudeville, together with a special film for the performance, the latter to be one of the biggest releases of the past several months.

George Stinson, Santa Ana's "Singing Cop" will headline the bill of vaudeville numbers, while the acts which are now being lined up for the show are all top notches, according to Norman Sprowl and Francis Glaab, Fox theater operators here.

Sprowl announced today that tickets were on sale for the show at both the Fox houses in Santa Ana and all tickets are reserved.

NEW SONG HITS IN WEST COAST SHOW

Four smashing musical numbers were composed by Oliver Drake and Herbert Meyers for the Cliff Broughton production, "Rogue of the Rio Grande," coming today to the Fox West Coast theater. Myrna Loy's splendid singing voice is heard to exceptional advantage, and her effective delivery aids considerably in making these tunes the success that they are.

"Argentine Moon," "Carmita," "Carazon" and the "Song of the Bandereros" are the titles of the musical hits in "Rogue of the Rio Grande."

'ANIMAL CRACKERS' AT WALKER'S HOUSE

"Animal Crackers," latest all-talking picture featuring the Four Marx Brothers, opened at Walker's State theater yesterday.

If there was ever a "nutty" show with as much 'hokum' as "Animal Crackers," it has never been brought to a Santa Ana theater. The entire show is one round of laughter after another and most of the laughs come so fast the audience is left behind. All four of the brothers, particularly Groucho Marx, keep the picture moving at a fast clip throughout.

"Animal Crackers" will be here three days.

"TOL'ABLE DAVID" AT FOX B'DWAY TODAY

A dramatic plot, fascinating situations, powerful action and a poignant quality make "Tol'able David," the all-talking film adapted from Joseph Hergesheimer's immortal classic which opens at the Fox Broadway theater today, is the most enjoyable film of the year.

This tale of the Virginia Mountain folk is primarily concerned with the development of a boy, who was considered just "tol'able," to manhood. When catastrophe comes to his home and he has to assume the responsibilities of a full-grown man, the young boy rises to the situation. The characterization is an inspiration. In fact, every one of the characters, which are by the way interpreted

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 22.—The annual Christmas program and treat for children of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs was held Thursday evening at I. O. O. F. hall, with about 50 present. There was a slight change from the regular Christmas tree, the group meeting early for a pot-luck supper, which was served at tables gay in their holiday decorations and afterwards the evening was devoted to entertaining the children with games at which time the treats were given, popcorn and candy in abundance being given out.

The Westminister Thursday Afternoon "500" club had as hostess last week, Mrs. Anna Abbott.

Those present included Mrs. Winifred Morris, Mrs. Alice Hare, Mrs. Nellie Morgan, Mrs. May Muns, Mrs. Linda McDaniels, Mrs. Sella Farnsworth, Mrs. Marie Falcke, Mrs. Evelyn Wardlow, Mrs. Frank VanUden, Mrs. Charles Parr, Mrs. Mast, Mrs. Anna Abbott, Mrs. McDaniels won high prize; Mrs. VanUden second, while Mrs. Falcke won low prize.

Mrs. Michel, of Smeltzer, will act as hostess of the club at the next meeting.

Harold Peterson, sixth grade teacher of Westminister school, has gone to Inglewood, where he will spend the holiday vacation with his brother.

Miss Roberts, of Hollywood, and Miss Ward, of La Habra, have left for their respective homes for the period of the vacation. Mrs. Mable Clough entertained three friends for an evening at her home when "Hearts" was the diversion and delicious refreshments of jello, cake and tea were served. Mrs. Clough's guests were Mrs. A. G. Snow and Mrs. Chester Campbell, of Midway City, and Mrs. Clyde Day, of Westminister.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Chamberlin were hosts for two days to Mr. and Mrs. Forest Perry, of San Pedro, and on Thursday Mrs. Willard Keir and daughter, of Hynes, and Mr. and Mrs. Artie Cooper, of Long Beach, were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlin.

Audrey Penhall, of Cypress, was an overnight guest Thursday in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Groeschner, who have been residing in Venice while Mr. Groeschner was employed in the oil fields of that vicinity, have returned to Westminister and will make their home with Mrs. Groeschner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris.

The little Mexican girl who is a pupil in the fourth grade of the Hoover school who has been so long with pneumonia, is reported as greatly improved. A two-months-old Mexican baby has been very ill with the same disease but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Chamberlin and Mrs. Alice Hare spent Wednesday in Long Beach.

Mrs. W. S. Little attended on Friday afternoon the funeral of Mr. Robert Masters, of Huntington Beach, which was held in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris motored to Los Angeles Friday. Mrs. George Clough and son, Gerald Clough, were in San Pedro Friday, to visit Mrs. Clough's mother, Mrs. Hansen.

SPRINGDALE

With the closing of the Springdale school for the holidays the parents and patrons of the school were rewarded with invitations to attend one of the annual programs which it is the custom for the school to present twice annually. The children gave several delightful numbers. Pauline Applebury is leader of the band and Scott Knepper is pianist.

The program included the following numbers: Opening recitation by entire first grade; song, "Santa Land," second grade; reading, Jack Kettler; song, first grade; reading, Hammond C. Hudson; reading, Clifford Houser; song, third grade; reading, Billy Kettler; three number by the band, "The Shoemaker Dance," "Norwegian Dance," and "La Secret" with record accompaniment; songs by the school, "Silent Night," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," "Joy to the World," "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" and "Upon the Housetops."

A play "Santa Strikes," proved an interesting feature of the program and character parts were as follows: "Santa Claus," Alvin Hurst; "Mrs. Santa Claus," Mary Kettler; the mother, Mildred Ruff; the father, Alvin Graham; the two children, Dorothy Star and Adas Imota; "Spirit of Christmas," Doris Moore; fairy, Juanita Wentzel; "Spirit of Night," Leona Peters; wooden soldiers, Johnny Kuykandahl, Dwight Wentzel, Fredrick Peters; dolls, Florence Ray Moore, Betty Applebury, Geraldine Houser, Medorie Imota, Irene Luffter, Anna Ostlin. Each doll represented a country, Anna Ostlin, who is a native of Holland, and Medorie Imota, of Japan, wore their native costumes brought from their own country, adding a clever feature to this portion of the program.

Treats of candy canes, suckers and cake were presented the children by their teachers, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Gortz and these were distributed by Santa Claus.

GARDEN GROVE

To Fill the Stocking

the new pendant watch... is jewel-set gold and enamel.

a tricky gift, sure to please... starched chiffon, simulating feathers, for a fan.

black face ornaments... to go with a gown made princess.

not leather medals, but leather gardenias... most acceptable.

two sparkling balls of rhinestone... swinging from a bracelet.

YOU can't go wrong when you fill a woman's stocking with vanities. Jewels, nice lingerie, a pretty this or that that she just wouldn't buy for herself. Those are the kind of gifts that bring enthusiastic "Thank you" notes.

When it comes to lingerie, pretty undies are always welcome in the wardrobe of a girl. But a very decorative nightgown is about the smartest gift you can give this season.

The new nighties are princess in line, are delicate, feminine colors, and have the most unusual ornamentations. If you want to be very chic with your gift, a sea-foam green cape Elizabeth gown cut on princess lines and made with appliques of black lace or beige lace is just superlative.

This gown is made a lot like a party frock. It has a sweet neckline, a pointed V one, outlined with lace edging and a yoke effect made by the lace let into the gown. There is lace about the armholes and for a hip-yoke effect, there is the loveliest yoke of the same lace, let in by hand to make the daintiest decoration imaginable.

THIS type of gown is fine made of flat crepe or crepe de chine or the French ninon. And turquoise blue, rose pink and a new sunny yellow are very good for nighties right now, too.

An extra few girls purchase for themselves is a fan. It is the first season for years when fans are in order, for coquetry is just around the corner now and the girl who can wield a fan may conquer hearts. There are feather fans and painted fans and fans beaded and made of lace. But the very newest fan is the one made of starched chiffon cut like feathers. They come in all colors. You just have to know what a girl is wearing in the way of evening colors this season. Or you can get a bright red or black one that is good for any dress.

IF you want to send your friends flowers, why not make them usable, in the form of boutonnières or belt bouquets? You can get such cute flowers now. And you can get a little hat-box type of container, in gay colors or dainty ones that will enhance your gift.

New flowers come in a combination of leather and glass, chiffon and feathers and two kinds of silk, flat crepe and panne velvet. A little nosegay of white gardenias is always acceptable when in doubt about what kind to send.

Last, but not least, consider the new bracelets. With gloves to the fore, bracelets are beautiful against their soft background. A new kind of bracelet has strands of brilliants, connected with single big stones, perhaps pearls, and two little pendant balls made of rhinestones set in silver. One of this type uses turquoise, pearls and rhinestones, in the most amazingly beautiful manner.

Four Meals To Eat On Christmas

By MISSIS PHYLLIS

OF ALL the days of the year—holidays, birthdays, anniversaries—Christmas is the very biggest one of all. And everyone wants to enjoy it to the full and have the best time imaginable. Also it is the biggest feast day—and it is going to be hard to keep small digestions and tempers in order and serene.

In preparing the feasts of the day, think of the children. And along with the rich puddings and savory meats without which the day wouldn't be itself, plan to have some simple soup or vegetables or fruits for the tinier folk. If you have a small table at which to seat the children, apart from the grownups, you may find it easier to give them plates bearing more carrots and spinach and less of corn fritters or candied sweet potatoes.

We'll plan menus today for breakfast, dinner, tea and supper. Perhaps you won't be having that many meals at your home—you don't need them. But in order to have all possible meal suggestions, we'll put them all in. With an early breakfast (and where there are children who have waited impatiently all night for Santa Claus, breakfast is bound to be early) dinner perhaps one or two o'clock.

Supper time comes round at six or seven. The tea will be the sort of tea you like to have on hand if there are callers, and on Christmas Day there are likely to be callers.

BREAKFAST might consist of a basket of fruit; cereal with green apple sauce and Christmas trees; broiled mushrooms with bacon on toast; coffee; toast, milk or cocoa.

The cereal is especially planned for the children, the bacon and mushrooms for a bit of a breakfast treat for people who usually have to hurry through this meal and get off to work.

For the basket of fruit, hollow out halves of orange, fill with fruit and put a sprig of holly in the top.

The cereal may be any cooked cereal. Make some apple sauce and color it green with vegetable coloring. Put some in the middle of the cereal serving. Then shape a Christmas tree (very simply, of course) with about nine little red cinnamon candies.

FOR dinner, let me suggest: Christmas canape; roast goose; baked apples; mashed potatoes—platter of vegetables; cranberry and raisin conserve; rolls, olives and celery; poinsettia salad; wafers; frozen plum pudding or steamed plum pudding; Christmas cookies and candies; coffee.

For the Christmas canape, spread bread which has been lightly browned in olive oil with pimento creamed cheese. With chopped parsley, chopped green pepper or pimento strips make a Christmas candle in the center, the flame of sifted hard-cooked egg yolk.

For your platter of vegetables, a pretty arrangement is a center mound of beets around which are lots of buttered baby beets and at the sides mashed or cubed turnips, at the end buttered carrots. But be sure to plan something that the youngest of the children may have, especially as "hard" vegetables (turnips, carrots, beets, onions) are a part of winter feasts.

Cranberry and raisin conserve is made with 1 quart cranberries, 4 cups sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup blanched almonds, 1 orange sliced thin.

Cook cranberries with water to cover till skins crack. Put through sieve, add water and two cups sugar and boil till sugar is dissolved. Add orange and raisins and other two cups sugar. Cook 30 minutes. Add almonds cut finely. Boil five minutes more. Serve cold.

The poinsettia leaves for the salad are made by cutting pimentoes or cold thinly-sliced beets.

CHRISTMAS tea may be simple, with only tiny sandwiches; Christmas cookies; tea or cocoa.

Since you probably won't know how many or how old callers you will have, better not make up any sandwiches until they come. Then make them very small with plain fillings—have a few rolled bread-and-butter ones and a few with a filling made of peanut butter mixed with honey. Those will be good for the children.

One or two kinds of open ones are nice for grownups—cream cheese with a border of currant jelly is very attractive, or sifted egg yolk mixed with mayonnaise and bordered with chopped parsley or pickle or olives.

Christmas supper needn't be elaborate. Try oyster stew or cream of chicken soup with rice, or cream of tomato soup with whipped cream; celery and apple salad; individual apple pies with cheese or whipped cream.

Your Christmas Charm

By CHARLOTTE C. WEST, M. D.

THE Christmas candles may shine and the yule log glow, but you won't have a good time at the holiday parties unless you are looking your very best.

And if you want to look your best, your clothes have to help show off your good points instead of using you as a convenient display rack.

If you have very short legs or a very long back you should adopt the high waistline. Dumpy women must adopt unbroken lines and should never wear checks or plaids. If you are thick and bulky you can produce a slender effect with transparent draperies over a plain foundation.

Scrawniness, round shoulders and flat chests can be concealed by the choice of exquisite accessories and the "cut" of garments which are especially made with your physical deficiencies in view.

IF YOU are tall and slender you have fewer dress problems than if you are short and broad. However, you must choose the colors that suit you best and that bring out your own coloring most effectively.

It is important to know where you vary from the acknowledged form. A beautiful form consists of a small head, long neck, sloping shoulders, flat back, round chest and slender tapering legs. Bearing all this in mind you will see at once that anything which shortens the neck adds width and height to the shoulders.

THE matured woman who wishes to preserve her youth into old age does not follow the prevailing styles. She selects what is best in every mode and adapts these to her individuality; she wears garments that do not date; she is therefore always beautifully, becomingly, and hygienically clothed.

Being conspicuous doesn't help you achieve individuality in dress. Leave the extremes to those who seek notoriety in this field. Confine yourself to that which suits yourself and you will be far better off than if you try slavishly to follow the mode.

The "smartest" women in the world today possess the rare art of distinctive individuality as expressed in chic. And that is not mere beauty of countenance, but includes ease of freedom and motion; a slender figure, that indefinable something which makes you stand out beyond others; good taste... a knowledge of the fitness of things, particularly in dress; and the allure, the mystification of femininity... subtly achieved through delicate perfumes and the combined gift of knowing how to handle yourself.

(Copyright Thomas Y. Crowell Company.)

Last Minute Presents

You would be showing the real wisdom of the Magi if you chose either the lamps, end table, pictures or small rug, which help to make this living room attractive, as part of your Christmas gifts. (Illustration courtesy American Furniture Mart, Chicago.)

THE last-minute hasty consultation of the Christmas shopping list and those frantic trips to the stores and shops for just a few more purchases before the agony of Christmas shopping is over! It is an experience every woman knows.

It is also one which can be simplified. The consideration of furniture as a Christmas gift opens up a whole new field of possibilities to the exploring Christmas shopper. It is a veritable gold mine to the last-minute purchaser.

Many people think of furniture in terms of lounging chairs, buffets and bedsteads, and are a little bit jolted at the idea of making a tidy package of a library table and sending it to Uncle Henry. Uncle Henry would probably be equally jolted, though pleasantly so, to receive it. But those items do not exhaust the possibilities of furniture as gifts.

THAT same hard-to-please relative, or any other man of your family or acquaintance, would probably consider you the bearer of truly good gifts if you remembered him at Christmas time with a reading lamp.

There are so many new ones, all so exceedingly masculine-looking that they make the ideal gift for "him." You may already have brought down a shower of smoking stands on the male members of your family. If you have, ignore them and pass on to the magazine racks.

Nobody ever gets to read their magazines until they have been out a few weeks, and all that time they must be stored some place. The magazine rack in lacquer red, gay green, black or a wood finish would be hailed with joy in many households as a good solution. Book-ends are an acceptable gift and for those who like to give the unusual, there are some exceedingly interesting designs in bronze, brass, pewter or carved onyx. Men have also been known to be grateful recipients of rugs. A rug for his room or his den is an excellent gift for the particular man.

THE apartment dwellers will welcome one of the many two-purpose pieces of furniture. The end table which becomes a tea-wagon when a spring is released is one of our old friends in this family. The card table which serves also as a fire screen is another double-purpose piece which will be received with thanksgiving in many households.

Screens of all kinds, especially the new ones decorated with lovely prints, make excellent gifts.

Who would not be grateful for a pair of end tables, or a pair of consoles? A coffee table may be an inexpensive but useful and much-appreciated gift.

While we are talking about tables we may as well mention tea-wagons, sewing tables, and tilt-top and flip-top tables, all of them happy suggestions to the belated Christmas shopper.

A pair of boudoir lamps will nearly always be appreciated by some "her" of your acquaintance. For a more pretentious gift there are the cedar chests, the lowboys and the boudoir chairs.

Christmas may come but once a year, but the furniture gift remains for many years—a pleasant reminder of the thoughtful giver.

Bargaining For Gifts

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"GRAMA?"

Roger opened her door and stuck in his head. That was his way of asking permission to enter her room.

"Come on in, honey."

Roger slid in and deposited his backbone on the seat of the fireside chair facing her.

"Better, Grama?"

"Yes, thank you, dear. My cough's loosening up, I think. How was school?"

"Oh, school's all right. Jimmy Crickets, it's cold outside! There's ice over everything. You oughta see the kids skating in the street. Everywhere, mind you, on the sidewalks and just everywhere. The rain froze. I fell about 17 times going to school and I guess about 200 times coming home."

"Well, well—that's too bad. You'll have to skate back after lunch, won't you?"

"Can't! Those old skates are an inch too short and the straps are all broken. I wish I had a pair right on some shoes—screwed on the soles. You know, eh?"

"YOU see," he frowned, I did speak to Mother and to Dad, but they always say I can get along with the old ones for awhile yet. Honestly, Grama, I hate to put them on. I have to tie 'em on with string."

"Well, that's too bad. Don't you think Santa Claus might bring some?"

Grandma smiled to herself although her face was serious enough. She adored this boy with his business-like frankness.

She knew he wasn't hinting, but just preparing the way for a proposition.

"Say Grama, have you bought my Christmas present yet?"

"Why no, I'm a little late."

"Well, say, I—a—eight dollars is more than you'd pay for my present, I know, but would you mind telling me how—just about how much you'd feel like spending on it?"

"Certainly," she replied very seriously. "I think I'd spend about three dollars on it."

ROGER snapped his fingers gleefully. "Gee! That fixes it! I've got a good plan. Uncle George always gives me five dollars and I think it came today. I saw an envelope the letter man brought, with his name and address on it. I'll bet that was my check."

"I wouldn't be surprised," nodded Grandma. "Well, sir, you get Mother to give me that check now and you give me your three dollars, and I'll go down and get those skates and that'll be my Christmas present from you both. Go on, will you, Grama?"

"Why—a—your mother might—" "Oh, she won't understand, not like you do."

She'd say that wasn't any way to buy a Christmas present. But Gee! I need those skates now, this—very—minute!"

Grandma stroked his arm gently. "Sure you do, dearie. I know what it is to want something very much, 'right this very minute.' It is never quite the same again, is it?"

Roger let out a whoop, snapped his fingers with an ecstatic jerk and barged for the door.

"MOTHER! You let that child bulldoze you into anything. I never heard of anything so ridiculous."

"It isn't ridiculous. It was a straightforward business-like proposition. It's far better than hinting, and I like the frankness of it. If children's requests were not always hooted down, especially when they are so out and out sensible and fair as this one is, we'd have a more honest lot of people in the world."

"You and your ethics, Mother! I can't see how you can call pure cheekiness anything so polite as frankness."

But later the boy's mother came back. "Here's that check, or the money rather. I cashed it myself. I've thought over what you said and I believe you are right. Children have a sense of decency and justice all their own. And since Roger didn't hint, I'll give in."

Grandma thanked her. She got three new one-dollar bills from her purse and put them with the five. "You give it to him, Emily. Teach him to go to you with his plans."

Deep Oil Test Planned For Costa Mesa District

2000 ACRES IN LEASE HELD BY NUOIL COMPANY

COSTA MESA, Dec. 22.—T. F. Gesell, president of the Nuoil company, says his well on the Banning tract is to be a deep test. The light equipment now being used is to be replaced by a heavy rotary outfit, capable of going to any desired depth. Geologists for the Nuoil company estimated that they will hit the deep sand in that area at a depth of at least 100 feet shallower than it has been found at Huntington Beach.

There have been several deep tests near Newport Beach and the Standard Oil is now drilling a deep test there. The Nuoil test is in an area never drilled before. It lies between the Santa Ana river and Newport. A small company started the operations there with a Star rig and the Nuoil company, backed by T. F. Gesell and wife and their associates numbering several New York millionaires, took the lease over.

Their well is being drilled on their 670 acre lease from the Town of Land company, owned by the Banning family. They also have all the surrounding acreage leased, totaling about two thousand acres. The Nuoil company is a closed corporation and no stock is being sold to the public.

Buena Park 4-H Club Heads Named

BUENA PARK, Dec. 22.—Lester Scofield, leader of the 4-H club, entertained the members with a Christmas party at his home on Grand and Orangewood avenues Saturday afternoon. Games were played and the boys enjoyed a hunt for bags of candy and nuts which had been hidden for them.

Election of officers was the main feature of the business meeting. Robert Thomas was chosen as president; Robert Cole, vice president; Robert Smith, secretary; and Donald Jones, treasurer. The meetings will be held at the Scofield home on the first and third Saturday evening of the month at 7 o'clock.

The members are Lawrence Robeson, Robert Cole, Robert Thomas, Robert Smith, Donald and Kenneth Jones and Paul Hollowell.

Endeavor Groups Present Program In Friends Church

EL MODENA, Dec. 22.—Instead of the regular evening service at the El Modena Friends church, the intermediate and senior Christian Endeavor societies gave a Christmas pageant under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Skiles.

Chester Stearns was reader. Shepherds were Logan Garner, Earl Barnett and Wayne Gray. The travelers were Martha Stanfield and David Dozier. The wise men were Luther Hadley, Glenn Moody and Henry Stoner. Mary and Joseph were Orpha Stanfield and Hollis Gray. Mrs. Douglas Marshburn was pianist. A chorus sang the beautiful old Christmas carols.

SANTA PAYS VISIT TO H. B. CHILDREN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 22.—Santa Claus came to Huntington Beach Saturday afternoon in an airplane. He landed on the beach and walked to a truck, which was loaded with candy and gifts for the 1000 children who had flocked to the beach to welcome Santa Claus.

Every child was accompanied by one or more grownups and many of the grownups joined in the scramble for candy and trinkets that Santa Claus tossed to the children as the truck drove slowly up Main street to Olive and back to Ocean avenue and the pier.

Ralph C. Turner of the Business Men's association acted as assistant to Santa Claus, helping him distribute gifts. In front of the Robinson store, where a private Christmas giving program was being staged for boys and where a crowd was already congregated, the crowd grew so large when Santa Claus passed in his truck, that in the jam a plate glass window was broken, and a few children were frightened, but nobody was injured.

New Directors Of H. B. Chamber To Name Officers

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 22.—The new board of directors of the chamber of commerce will meet the first week in January to elect officers for the ensuing year. The new directors are Willis H. Warner, A. W. Frost, A. H. Dixon,

ARRANGE H. B. YULE PROGRAM TUESDAY NIGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 22.—An out door Christmas was planned in Huntington Beach but a windstorm came in from the desert Saturday night and Sunday and upset the plans. Christmas trees along Main street were toppled over and ornaments smashed. The city street department removed decorations of bunting, which were being blown to shreds by the wind.

The big community Christmas tree at Main and Ocean at the pier entrance was not injured and beneath this fine tree tomorrow night will be held the community Christmas celebration. There will be gifts for children and a short program. Lighted Christmas trees in yards at private homes, which were to feature the out door Christmas program, waved and bent in the wind and the Christmas decorations were hopelessly jumbled. The community Christmas tree program will be carried out at the pier entrance regardless of the weather conditions.

The program is being sponsored by the city firemen with the support of the civic and commercial and charity organizations.

Newport C. of C. Tickets On Sale

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 22.—Tickets for the annual dinner and meeting of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce at the new Newport harbor high school cafeteria January 15 were on sale today.

This will be the first public dinner at the high school cafeteria and the event will be a kind of celebration of the organization of the high school, the harbor chamber having been active in securing the legal change, the formation of the district, carrying of the bonds and other steps which culminated in building the school.

J. S. Farquhar, J. S. Denny, W. R. Osborn, W. A. Greer, C. P. Patton, C. R. Furr, O. A. Mosler, R. C. Turner, Lee Channess, Mrs. Marie J. Wiener, D. T. Johnson, W. I. Clapp. The new members of the board are W. I. Clapp and Lee Channess.

CHILDREN WILL BE GUESTS AT YULE PROGRAM

COSTA MESA, Dec. 22.—Japanese of the community held a Christmas program with treats for the children at the Community church this afternoon.

Tonight, a program, tree and treats for children are planned at the Poursquare church, Newport boulevard at Rochester street.

Tuesday evening, the Sunday school Christmas program, with a tree and the usual sweets will be held at the Community church.

Wednesday night, at the Community church, an entertainment for the Mexican children will be held.

Fred Fawcett of the Model drug will be Santa Claus to local children. The exact date has not been set, but the 400 children treated last year, will watch Mr. Fawcett closely as Christmas draws near.

Sewer System Is Planned At Tract

BUENA PARK, Dec. 22.—At a special meeting of the Buena Park Sanitary board, a resolution was adopted to organize an assessment district in the annexed territory of the Calloway tract to install sewer mains.

The estimated cost of the project is $3000 and pipe will be laid on Western avenue from Eleventh street to Orangewood avenue and to the south side of the district, a distance of 1020 feet and along Orangewood avenue 449 feet. On the south terminus on Western avenue the main is to be laid six feet deep. The cost to the annexed area will be approximately .0244 cents per square foot, about three times higher than the cost of the sewer lines laid two years ago.

Contracts will be awarded in two weeks.

New San Clemente Minister In First Sermon on Sunday

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 20.—The Rev. Robert M. Hogarth, newly appointed rector of St. Clement by the Sea, San Clemente's Episcopal church, will preach his first sermon Sunday.

Before taking up his duties here the Rev. Mr. Hogarth was in charge of the Hemet-San Jacinto church. Before that he served 11 years in Cleveland being forced to resign from work there due to ill health. The new rector is a graduate of Hobart college and also of the Episcopal Theological school at Harvard.

The new rector expressed himself as pleased with San Clemente and sees in this city a great opportunity. He is a Mason, a member of the Lions club and a Sigma Chi fraternity man.

Plan Yule Party In Fuller Park

FULLER PARK, Dec. 22.—Complete arrangements have been made for the third annual outdoor Christmas tree sponsored by the Community club tonight.

Mrs. E. R. Lundy is general chairman, F. Guthrie, chairman of the tree committee; A. L. Cook, program; Mrs. F. Guthrie, purchasing, and W. G. Roll and F. McQuay, lighting.

Mrs. J. Adams, Mrs. A. L. Cook, Mrs. F. Guthrie and Mrs. Lundy are receiving donations. Stockings of candy, nuts, apples and oranges will be given to more than 100 children.

The high wind of Saturday blew the tree down, and broke about 10

1000 PERSONS AT YULE PARTY IN COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, Dec. 22.—Over 1000 persons attended the Community Christmas program held in Costa Mesa Saturday night which was sponsored by the business men of Costa Mesa, who contributed $175 in money, prizes and candy for 500 children.

Besides many merchandise prizes checks for $5, $10 and $15 were awarded for the three best decorated out-door Christmas trees. Charles Gardner, of Eighteenth street, received $15 prize; Mrs. J. B. Slain, $10, and Mrs. B. P. Chaplin, $5. All the prize winners lived on Eighteenth street. There were 18 contestants. Charles Dunn was chairman of a committee of three for the judging of the trees.

Mrs. A. E. Triplett, of Twentieth street, was awarded $25 check; Mrs. D. Morrison, $15, and Mrs. T. Dittmar, $10.

A short program preceded the awarding of the prizes. The Friday afternoon club chorus sang Christmas carols, directed by Mrs. M. O. Wells, music section leader of the club. Selections were given by the young men's string quartet and yells were given by the Boy Scouts.

The high wind of Saturday blew the tree down, and broke about 10

CHURCH SCHOOL DISTRICT JOIN FOR PROGRAM

The Alamitos Friends church and the Alamitos school district joined in giving its Christmas entertainment December 19 at the Friends church. The auditorium and the annex were both well filled. Mrs. Oral Hare, principal of the school, opened the exercises and led the music.

The program was as follows: Singing by congregation, "Joy to The World"; Scripture reading, the Rev. Floyd Younger; prayer, the Rev. Mr. Younger; "A Merry Christmas," Vernon Rez; "Christmas for All," beginners and primary classes; song, school children; reading, Jane Messersmith; "The Herald Star," junior girls; "Holy Night," Donald Wakeham; "The Christmas Air Mail," Nancy Nichols; instrumental, Mrs. Trotter; "To Bethlehem We Hasten," junior girls; song, trio; "Just Before Christmas," Billy Nichols; "Then and Now," Woodrow Beaver; Santa Claus, Virginia Sowers; song, school children.

W. Kennedy acted as Santa Claus. His helpers brought in two boxes of gifts for the cradle roll of which Mrs. Ralph Broady is superintendent. One box was filled with little red socks filled with animal cookies. The other box contained dolls which the Friendly class of the church had assisted Mrs. Broady in making. A general treat was distributed to each one in the audience.

Last Rites For Fullerton Woman Held Wednesday

FULLERTON, Dec. 22.—Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the McAulay and Suters funeral parlors for Mrs. Minnie E. Thorpe, 72, wife of C. M. Thorpe, city engineer, who died suddenly Saturday morning following a heart attack. The Rev. Graham C. Hunter, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Fullerton, will officiate at funeral services. Burial will be in Loma Vista cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Thorpe is survived by four daughters, Mrs. J. A. Thaler of Bozeman, Mont.; Miss Elizabeth Thorpe, a teacher in Huntington Park high school; Mrs. L. W. Alford, Billings, Mont.; and Mrs. D. H. Burrows, of Oakland. A sister, Mrs. Sarah Brooks, of Glendale, also survives.

Marvels in Your Milk Bottle

Stephen M. Babcock sacrificed a fortune to give the world honest dairy products, but this month, at 87, he will reap one reward for his discoveries of 40 years ago, and he can see the many wonderful articles scientists have been able to obtain from milk of the friendly cow

"He made dairymen more honest than the Bible ever did!" . . . Professor Stephen M. Babcock . . . father of scientific dairying . . . in his laboratory.

By FRANK THONE

THAT bottle of white milk on your doorstep alongside the morning paper! There is in it more than a mere liquid for the breakfast cereal of the baby's bottle.

From out of the milk pail science has caused to flow gay beads, buttons, fountain pen barrels, pipe stems, radio parts, spectacle frames, dice, and a multitude of other useful and ornamental things that used to be made of horn, celluloid, bone, ivory, ebony, pearl, amber or tortoise shell.

Hidden in the milk is glue for furniture, coatings for paper and leather, binders for paints, and even an essential constituent of some face and shaving creams.

One of the proteins of milk, casein, finds a multitude of uses in industry. It is the stuff called curd, that remains when the whey or watery part of sour milk is removed. The transparent, tough cigar and candy wrappers so common today are made of casein.

The sugar of milk also provides competition for the sugar cane and sugar beet. Lactose, or milk sugar is prescribed by physicians for those suffering from digestive disorders, and pharmacists use it to sweeten, dilute or coat unpleasant medicines in tablet form. Mother adds lactose to baby's milk so that it will more easily nourish the growing infant.

The fat of milk gives cream for the coffee and butter for the bread. Cheeses of several hundred sorts are manufactured from milk in various parts of the world, ranging from mild Swiss to powerful limburger. Cheese is milk in a more concentrated and less perishable form, and the change is accomplished by coagulation of the casein caused by the acid given off by bacteria.

In malted milks, ice creams and buttermilks, the essentials of milk are merely mixed with other foods before they are offered to the public. And there is even the possibility of a milk drink coming under the ban of the Volstead Act because in such soured milks as koumiss, both alcohol and sour milk acid is formed from the milk sugar. The alcohol may rise as high as three per cent.

WELL over 20,000,000 cows and thousands of dairymen, milkmen and merchants participate in the American milk industry. It is not a new industry as industries go, for the use of milk of animals as food by man goes far back of all recorded history. Nevertheless, it has been a matter of only a few years since science lent its brain and hands to making the dairying industry more efficient and profitable.

One of the significant beginnings of science in dairying was commemorated the other day when a senator gave a professor $5000.

There was in the transaction no hint of any cause for other senators to start an investigation, fond as senators have become of doing that sort of thing. On the contrary, everybody knew why the senator gave the professor the $5000, and everybody applauded the donation.

For the Capper prize of $5000 and a gold medal for the most distinguished service to American agriculture was awarded to Professor Stephen M. Babcock of the University of Wisconsin because, 40 years ago, he invented a machine that made dairying an honest business, and put the old farm pump out of commission as a source of sure-fire jokes.

The rewards of science are sometimes a bit leisurely in arriving. But then, perhaps, Senator Capper didn't have so many $5000 prizes to spare 40 years ago, and in the meantime Professor Babcock hasn't missed the money.

For the genial old gentleman—who will be 87 on his next birthday, Oct. 22—is one of those rare souls who in a commercial age has never bothered about money. When he invented the Babcock test in 1890, it was recognized instantly as something of tremendous possibilities, and he was urged to patent it.

Had he done so, and collected even the smallest of royalties, he would be a very rich man today. But he preferred to give his idea freely to the world, for everybody's profit, and he has never expressed the least regret.

In his long career as an agricultural chemist, Professor Babcock has done a number of things that have resulted in great profit to the dairy industry and great benefit to the consuming public, but he has always been faithful to the same policy of not accepting any financial gain from them for himself.

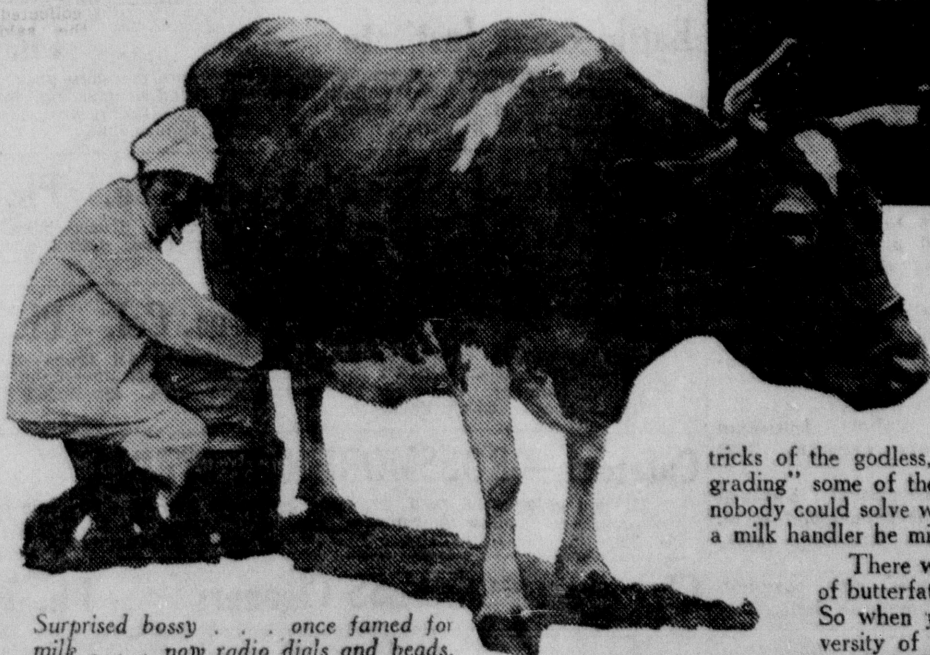

Even before he brought out the Babcock test, he had devised two other tests for milk quality, and afterwards, in collaboration with his associates, he made discoveries that revolutionized cheese making.

Most notable among these latter, probably, was his original demonstration of the fact that cheese is not ripened by bacterial or mould action, as most dairy technicians believed, but by a digestive juice or ferment contained in the curd itself. This has made possible ripening of cheeses in cool rooms instead of at risky high temperatures which were formerly considered indispensable.

BUT it is the milk test that bears his name that has really made Professor Babcock famous. And unlike many discoveries in science, even in applied science, it did not have to wait long years and fight its way against obstinate recognition and acclaim.

Some of the praise that has been bestowed upon the Babcock test would seem extravagant if it were not quite sincere and fairly demonstrable. The outstanding bit is the epigram attributed to former Governor Hoard of Wisconsin: "It has made more dairymen honest than the Bible has ever made."

And that is not so much of an exaggeration as it may sound. A generation and a half ago, when commercial creameries were beginning to figure as a major factor in American rural economies, they had troubles of their own. Their aim was to deliver to the public milk, and especially butter, of high and uniform quality, replacing the old "tub" butter made by rule of thumb at individual farmhouses.

But they had to strive for this uniformity and quality pretty much in the dark, and often against sheer dishonesty. For milk is anything but uniform. High-grade milk contains around five per cent butterfat, but there are plenty of mediocre cows whose milk yields less than three per cent. And to the unaided eye it all looks pretty much alike. Add to that variability the tricks of the godless, adding water to the milk or "high-grading" some of the cream off it, and you have a riddle nobody could solve with his eye, no matter how experienced a milk handler he might be.

There wasn't a scientific test for the percentage of butterfat in milk in existence during the 1880's. So when young Dr. Babcock went to the University of Wisconsin from the New York Agricultural Experiment Station, with most of the shine still on his German university degree, his dean, W. A. Henry, put it up to him to devise a sure milk test.

He worked out two or three, but they didn't satisfy him, and he would not give up the search, although his colleagues thought that the others would be good enough for all practical purposes. Babcock wanted the right test; for him no bread has always been better than a half loaf.

At last he got it, and published it freely for all the world. As fast as dairymen could get the hang of it they began to use it. Milk-waterers and cream-skimmers "got ethics."

(Copyright, 1930, By EveryWeek Magazine and Science Service—Printed in U. S. A.)

Stacking big cheeses to cure . . . Babcock's discoveries also revolutionized the cheese-making industry.

THOUSANDS turned honest overnight, while the honest dairy farmers rejoiced in an even break at last. Payment was by the pound of butterfat now, and gallons of water or thin milk meant merely so much unprofitable hauling.

Babcock's test is all the more remarkable not merely for its very literal bread-and-butter importance, but also because it is such a simple thing when you see it made that you are tempted to wonder why the scientists and agricultural technologists of the world have been heaping praises and prizes on Professor Babcock's careless head for half his lifetime. The answer to that is the old story of Columbus and the egg. Somebody had to think of it first.

All there is to the Babcock test is to put samples of the milk to be tested into some long-necked bottles with marks at proper intervals on their calibrated necks, pour in sulphuric acid, and whirl the bottles in a centrifuge.

When the machine is slowed down, the milk is in the bottles and the butterfat is up in their necks, where the percentage can be read off directly by the grade marks. It sounds simple, doesn't it?

But it is worth while to look at milk a little more closely, to see why through all the centuries of butter-making nobody ever worked out this test, and why it was a chemist at last, with really very little knowledge about the practical problems of commercial dairies, who thought of dumping sulphuric acid into milk and then whirling it around to make the cream "rise."

Milk is not a single, simple, uniform substance like water. It looks as though it were "all one piece" when it comes out of the cow, but as everybody has seen thousands of times, if milk is left to itself for a little while, it separates itself into two parts. One of these is cream, the other is skim milk.

If you churn the cream, you again get a separation, this time into a nearly pure fat—butter—and the thickish buttermilk. But if you squeeze the butter, a thin watery stuff comes out; so butter has at least two substances in it.

And if you let the skim milk alone until souring bacteria have done their work upon it, you find that it "curdles"—separates into a semi-solid, cheesy substance and a thin, watery fluid called whey.

SO even without any chemicals, or any knowledge of chemistry, you know what a complicated substance milk is. Chemists, with their more exact methods, have not yet unriddled all its complications.

But they do know that the things that are mixed into the water that makes up somewhere near 90 per cent of even the best milk can be divided into two general classes. One is made up of a lot of things—sugar and proteins and mineral salts—that can be dissolved in water. This constitutes the "milk plasma," roughly corresponding to skim milk. The other class contains a single substance—butterfat.

Butterfat, like all fats and oils, will not dissolve in water. But like all fats and oils, it can be shaken up in water or a watery solution so that it is separated into a host of tiny droplets that hang suspended, rising to the surface only slowly. This kind of a solution-full-of-fat-drops is called an emulsion. Whole milk is an emulsion of butterfat in skim milk.

Emulsions always tend to separate into their unmixable parts if left to themselves. Thus milk separates into cream and skim milk. But the separation is never complete and perfect. There is milk in even thick cream. Each droplet of butterfat is surrounded by a thin film of it, and it is very hard to make it let go.

If you pound cream very hard for a long time you can break these films and let the fat drops run together. That is the scientific basis of the very practical part of churning. When you churn you are beating up the milk films until they let go of their imprisoned butterfat drops.

Furthermore, not all of the butterfat comes out of the milk as cream. Some of the droplets, especially the tiniest ones, remain suspended in the milk; they are not able to float to the top as their larger brethren have done.

But to get a real picture of how much butterfat there is in a given lot of milk you should be able to get the butterfat droplets—all of them, even the tiniest—out of their films.

Professor Babcock was given this problem 40 years ago, and he solved it not by thinking especially of milk, but by going back to his general knowledge of chemistry, which reminded him that all proteins are soluble in sulphuric acid, and that fats are not.

Then, to hasten the process of separation, he put his milk and acid mixture in a centrifugal machine and spun the mixture about. The heavier milk and water went to the bottom, and the fat floated clear, where it could be measured.

There is probably no modern invention that has so radically reformed a great industry, and it was the beginning of the science of milk chemistry, which today yields you such diverse products as dice, beauty creams and cigar wrappers, all from the everyday cow's milk which the dairyman leaves at your door every morning.

Showing them how to use Babcock testers . . . with the flask, acid bottle and centrifugal machine on the table . . . a dairy expert instructs the farmer how to keep books on cows.

STORY OF THE STRUGGLE OF THE CHRISTIAN SPIRITUAL SCIENCE CHURCH

The importance of the struggle between Christ and Satan and its significance in the life of man was discussed last evening by the Rev. Paul Anderson in his lecture at the Christian Spiritual Science church. The subject of the sermon was "Tempted like we are," Heb. 4:15. He said in part:

"There is no more mysterious scene in the whole story of the Gospels than the temptation in the wilderness. That dark drama, the existence and the awful power of a personal Lord of Evil, recognized everywhere as a fact in the New Testament, appears here in all its darkness."

"We know that the dreadful encounter was a vital factor in the incarnate experience of the Son of God and that the endurance of it, and then the victorious sequel, like all that He did and suffered, were of infinite import for our blessing. This at least we know, that the Master is now, in the power of that strife and of that victory, able to enter into the very depth of every moral struggle of His disciples, and able to succor also them that are tempted," with the sympathetic power of an almighty but all-sensitive fellow-sufferer.

"The temptation was real, not a mere semblance. Our Master under stress of genuine temptation, had to win the victory, by evincing self-control, self-denial, disregard for selfish advantage; absolute renunciation of power, honor and self-gratification; and complete self-surrender to His Father's will."

"The place where it happened is not without significance. No out-branching trees made a cool restful shade; no spring upbursting with a song of gladness came to relieve the thirst; no flowers bloomed, pleasing the eye with color and the nostrils with fragrance; all was clear desert. Now, two things may be here noted—the desolation, and the solitude. The heart that loves Nature is strangely open to her influences."

A land of waste and cheerless bloom casts over the spirit a shadow as of blackest darkness. And Jesus had the finest, most sensitive soul that ever looked through human eyes. Think, then, how the desolation must have deepened the shadows on His spirit. Increased the burden that made Him almost faint at the opening of His way. And He was in solitude—alone there, without the comfort of a human presence, the fellowship of a kindred soul. Yet the loneliness was a sublime necessity."

"In His supreme moments society was impossible to Him. Out of loneliness He issued to begin His work; into loneliness He passed to end it. The moments that made His work divinely were His own."

WEDNESDAY AT WEST NEWPORT

WEST NEWPORT, Dec. 22.—The second annual West Newport floating Christmas tree will be lighted on the West Newport pool on Christmas eve at 6 o'clock. At that hour there will be an informal carol program and by Miss Edith Cornell, supervisor of music in the Santa Ana Junior high school, who is a resident of West Newport. All the old favorites will be sung, and every voice is urged to join in the singing. Following the carols, Santa Claus, who has rented a house on the pool for that evening, as he did last year, will undo his pack and distribute his treats. At 7:30 a more formal program of carols and an outdoor pageant will be given under the direction of the Rev. Russell C. Stroup, pastor of the Newport and Redondo churches. The pageant is in costume, with some interesting lighting effects. And after the pageant, Santa Claus will again take charge of the program.

Two programs are given so that those who have other engagements that evening may be able to take in one of the West Newport hours. Those who wish are invited to enjoy both programs.

The program is sponsored by the West Newport Improvement association, of which O. H. Burke is chairman, and Miss Helen L. Coffin, secretary. Committee chairman for the evening are: Finances, Mrs. David Sweeney; decorating, Mrs. Alfred Smith; tree, John Siegel; lighting, George Tolt; treats, Mrs. David Sweeney; and members of the executive committee of the association. Mrs. Eleanor Garrett-Smith, H. M. Lane, Sam Meyer, and Ralph P. Maskey.

BONES OF SOLDIER FOUND
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—Workmen excavating for a sewer here have found the skeleton of an American soldier believed to have fought in the War of 1812. Three brass buttons such as the American army used in that war were found beside the skeleton.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the REGISTER PUBLISHING COMPANY, a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, having its principal office in the City of Santa Ana, County of Orange, State of California, has filed with the Superior Court in and for the County of Orange, an application praying for a decree dissolving the said corporation.

ALL PERSONS WISHING TO OBJECT to the dissolution of the said corporation are directed to file their objections with the Clerk of said Superior Court within thirty days from the first publication of this notice.

WITNESS MY HAND, and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Orange, this 16th day of December, 1930.

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Black Knight smiled at all the bunch. They Clowny whispered, "Let's have lunch. I'm, frankly, very hungry. I can eat more than my share. Where do we eat, in towns like this?" And then he heard a sudden hiss. The Travel Man said, "Quiet please! We'll see a treat that's rare."

"I'm going to ask the big Black Knight to ride for you. 'Twill be a sight. How he hangs on his sturdy steed, I simply cannot tell. But, anyway, his horse jumps high and very soon goes speeding by." "Go right ahead and ask him," whispered Scouty. "That sounds swell."

The Black Knight seemed real willing and he suddenly cried out, "Now stand back, all you little fellows, where you will be safe and sound. I'll show some riding tricks that I have learned real well in years gone by." His horse's hoofs then clattered as they beat upon the ground.

The horse just seemed to fairly fly. The Tinsies stared as it went by. And when the show was over they all clapped and cried, "Hurrah!" The Black Knight then said, "Hark to me, Neary's a sight you'll like to see. About a block from here you'll find the Bird Man at his play."

That sounded interesting. "Geel!" cried little Coppy. "Follow me!" They all ran down the street a bit and, sure enough, they found the Bird Man acting very queer. The Tinsies all gathered near. They watched the funny fellow as he pecked and pecked the ground. The man had, fastened, very tight upon his head a real odd sight. It was a real long bird neck and a funny bird head, too. He moved his own head up and down and acted like a clown. "Oh, my, oh, my," cried Scouty. "That is surely something new."

(The Travel Man explains about the Bird Man in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

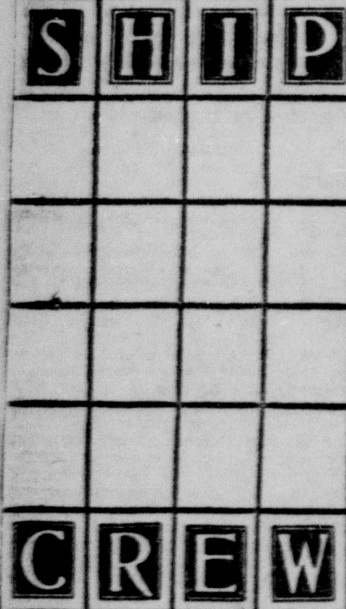

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FRIGHTENING

ST. LOUIS.—One of the oddest suits resulting from an airplane was aired in court here. It was brought by Benjamin Yaffe, coal dealer, who charged that because an airplane flew 300 feet above the ground, it frightened his horse, causing the animal to run away and throw him under the wheels of the wagon he was driving. Yaffe charged he suffered a broken leg, bruises and shock.

EVENING SALUTATION

God will put up with a great many things in the human heart, but there is one thing that He will not put up with in it—a second place. He who offers God a second place, offers Him no place.

—Ruskin.

A TEMPEST

Quite a tempest is being stirred up in Washington over the action of the Republican National Committee in opposing Senator Norris of Nebraska for re-election. The executive director of the committee justifies his position on the ground that Senator Norris had supported Alfred E. Smith, for President, as against Mr. Hoover, and that he was out of harmony with the majority of his Republican colleagues in the Senate very frequently.

The question of "What is a Republican?" is going to be pretty seriously raised before this controversy has entirely died down. Senator Norris claims that he is a Republican, but there are some Republicans who differ from him on this. These who disagreed with him on some of the issues put up a candidate against him in the primaries in Nebraska, and the fight was waged for and against Mr. Norris during the primaries. On primary day the voters marched to the polls and with the Republican primary ballot, declared that Mr. Norris was their candidate. In other words, the Republicans of Nebraska said that Senator Norris not only is a Republican, but that he is the kind of a Republican whom they want to represent them as a candidate for the United States Senate on their ticket.

Frankly, if there is any group that has a right to maintain that a certain man belongs to their party, it is the group of voters on primary day when they are voting as partisans for their candidates. They declared that Senator Norris was a Republican. To be sure, he is not the kind of Republican and doesn't support those issues which Robert H. Lucas, the executive director of the Republican National committee, supports. He doesn't get money from the same sources to carry on his campaign, but if men in Kentucky or Vermont who happen to be ramrodded into official executive positions on party committees, and who are carrying out the will of large contributors to party campaign funds were permitted to determine the parties in which men belong, party government, instead of being an expression of the will of the people, would be an oligarchy indeed.

We recall in 1920 when Herbert Hoover was unquestionably the most popular man in this country, the question was raised as to his party affiliations. Considerable argument was indulged in. It looked as though the first party that held a national convention would be likely to nominate Mr. Hoover for President. To settle that discussion, where did they go and to whom did they appeal? It was to Herbert Hoover. He settled it by declaring that he was a Republican.

Every one has the free right to support candidates either in primaries or in election time as they choose. All may so act as individuals and as citizens or even as organizations, with one exception. If men are a part of the regularly constituted official party organization, they should either support the candidate who has been nominated by the voters of the party or resign their official relationship to the party organization and fight the candidate as they see fit. This way, instead of the voters selecting the candidates, the national committee would select them for the voters. We might just as well do away with the party primary, and have the committee select the candidates in the first place. Possibly it would be easier to do away with an election, and let the enemies of such men as Norris run the government without an election.

A scientist has made a movie of molecules in action. There may be suspense in such a film but the solution is apparent at once.

THE WORLD SHOULD HEED

It would be well if the world will heed the message which was broadcast to America last night by Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary. There are many things which indicate that the world is forgetting the terrible cataclysm of the world conflict, and are permitting ignorance and prejudice to drive us into another conflict. Listen to the thoughtful words of this statesman:

We have to choose between peace and war, between co-operation and conflict, between a developing and ennobling civilization and a collapse into the barbarism of the past. We have to make that choice now, we cannot evade it or postpone it.

For unless we can build this structure of world peace upon a firm foundation, unless we can do it now before the memories of war have faded, we may depend upon it, sooner or later—and probably rather sooner than later—a cataclysm will come upon the world which will engulf all that we care about in western civilization.

He further suggested that as a result of recent labors in Geneva the way now is open for a world disarmament conference, and he said:

"I hope that within a year or so from now we may have agreed upon the first treaty whereby all the armies, navies and air forces in the world shall be limited and reduced."

This is a movement toward the end for which we all should labor, and the end is: only sufficient army and navy and air forces for policing the world, with the settlement of disputes by duly constituted courts.

ONE LYNCHING FRUSTRATED

It is a relief to read of the protection that was afforded a Negro from a mob by the officials at St. Joseph, Missouri, yesterday. A mob of men hailing from the town of the alleged victim of the Negro attempted to break into the jail and get the Negro. The sheriff and his deputies, with the city police force and national guard, called together by the sheriff, took a firm stand for the protection of their prisoner.

There is little question but what if the mob at any point knows that the officials mean to protect their prisoners from mob violence, cost what it may, that the mob spirit will be dissipated, and the lynchings which have been increasing in number during the past year, will be a thing of the past.

The women of the South recently, in two great conventions, have gone on record as opposed to this mob action and made declaration that it is not done on their (the women's) behalf. Governors of some of the Southern states, together with judges, are beginning to assume a strong and manly position on this outrageous condition, and it may be possible that the processes of the law will be permitted to take their course, with prisoners charged with crime, even though they be black men.

MORNING PAPERS ARE PASSING AWAY

The passing of the Commercial Tribune, of Cincinnati, the paper owned at one time by Murat Halstead, one of the great journalists of the last generation, leaves Cincinnati with but one morning paper, The Enquirer. Men remember when Chicago had ten morning newspapers. Today it has but two. Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, and Minneapolis have but one morning newspaper apiece. This is the evidence of a changing society. The people of our industrial centers have little time to read a morning newspaper. The evening paper has become the family paper. It goes into the home, and the whole family has a chance at it.

The morning paper which has a clear field in a great center of population may have a far-flung constituency which still makes it a paying proposition, but we know that in many places it is the evening edition of a paper that keeps the morning edition going. The business man can get his day's market quotations in the evening paper. In addition, the telegraph and the radio bring to it the last minute flashes from the farthest corners of the earth.

Old-Fashioned Folks

Portland Oregonian

So you fall to think of the old-fashioned folks, don't you? The quaint ones. The ones that strangely and touchingly prefer to live in the past. The multiplex, vivid and interesting spectacle of life goes rushing on and on, and they scarcely notice it. They are so out of touch with the times that none of them quite understands when you say to them, "Oh, yeah?" And if they try to say it—their plight is almost pitiful. They never seem to be able to get the correct inflection.

As an instance of these dear old fogies, there is the man who still works crossword puzzles for his instruction and amusement. And there's the one who sighs now and then for the times when there weren't any talkies. For times so remote as that! Can you imagine it? And it is almost amusing to hear another declare himself as of the opinion that "I Winter Comes" was a great novel. Oh, yeah? They're still voting for Coolidge.

Curious how the old ways, the old memories linger with them. Only the other day we were talking to a vague, gentle citizen who hadn't heard that a certain Hollywood star was divorcing her fifth husband. But you can't match him with the old-fashioned innocent who really believes "Annie Laurie" to be the finest song in the language, and that women shouldn't smoke. Some of them haven't learned to regard the saxophone as a musical instrument, and when they tune in on their radios they are always hoping to pick up a ballad. Actually.

Every once in a while, too, you chance upon one of these specimens, caught in the back waters of the present, who wants to discuss Woodrow Wilson with you, and who can't understand why the nations haven't disarmed. If it snows he'll wear overshoes, and if it rains he'll carry an umbrella. That's the fact. Listen. Get us straight. He calls a cantaloupe a mushmelon.

But you have to put up with them. And, besides, they're really entertaining, though not one of them will drive a car much over forty miles an hour. And all of them remember when the armistice was signed, just as though it was yesterday. Oh, yeah? The times are pretty far from them, and that's a fact. But still—

Murder For Flowers

San Diego Union

Chrysanthemums and gats were in evidence, we read, at the recent wedding of Mr. Scarface Al Capone's sister in Cicero, a Capone suburb of the great city of Chicago. That is a picturesque fact. A less picturesque but more useful fact is that the gats paid for the chrysanthemums.

Out of sheer generosity, we have also read, Mr. Capone maintains a soup kitchen for jobless men. He does not have to do it. He wins no great public sympathy thereby, and any popular campaign on his part would be as fruitless as it would be unnecessary. The soup kitchen is pure generosity. But gats and machine guns enable Mr. Capone to indulge this kindly quality.

And, let it be understood, the lethal weapons of gangland are employed in a manner that has no romance in it.

The easiest and safest man to terrorize is the man who has no friends, little money, no means of defense. Such persons—small tradesmen, workmen, petty grafters filling obscure jobs in one racket or another—are the persons gangland terrorizes. Gangland, when it kills, kills on the same principle. The easiest and safest way to kill a man is to put him on the spot, all unaware, defenseless, alone. That is the way gangland uses its machine guns and gats.

Gangland's displays, flaunting the profits of lawlessness in the face of lawful society, are pictures. But they are so ugly. Their ugliness is the more inclusive and more important quality. Commercialized crime is a sordid, mean-spirited and thoroughly contemptible business. Chrysanthemums bought by murder—easy, safe, cold-blooded murder—ought to be displayed only with the price tag on them.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE ANNUAL DELUSION

Small joy, as Christmas closer draws,
Has little Junior Smith;
He knows the talk of Santa Claus
Is just a silly myth.
Such tales, he thinks, are cheap and crude—
He will not be beguiled
By stuff intended to delude
A young and growing child.

He does not wake at half past four
And tumble out of bed,
And never mind if on the door
He bumps his precious head.
Emotionless his gaze he sees
And tells his friends next day:
"I'm sure that Mater brought my skis
And Pater brought my sleigh."

When now and then the kids next door,
Who were not wisely taught,
Exhibit happily the store
That Santa Claus has brought,
It makes poor little Junior grieve,
It pains him through and through,
To know that children can believe
A thing that is not true.

Perhaps in very early youth
An urchin ought to yearn
To know as much of hidden truth
As men can hope to learn,
Perhaps one should revere a lad
Whose views are wise and sound,
But I am glad I never had A kid like that around.

"Puss-in-the-Corner"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The sword-rattling words of Mussolini sound as though Italy were bent on capturing a foreign market by strong-arm methods. That means seizing a market that is occupied by some other nation. It is the old game of "Puss-in-the-Corner." With every rush of the contestants, somebody is left out.

See, then, what happens! The United States now has capacity for making far more motor cars than can be sold at home. In fact, the United States is equipped to supply the whole world, and would no doubt get ready, at short notice, to supply another world, if one could be found.

Consequently, the United States is making greater efforts to sell cars in England. But England also can make more cars than her own people can buy. So England is trying to sell her surplus cars to France.

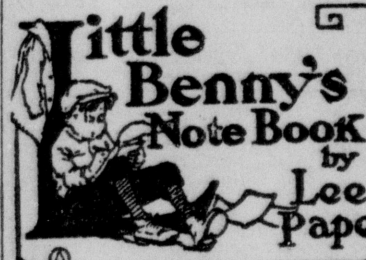

But France does not want them, for she is equipped to make more cars than her own people can buy. She cannot sell her surplus to Germany, for Germany is playing the game, too. There are not enough corners to go around!

What chance has Italy as a contest? She cannot force upon OTHER countries the very goods of which they have a superfluity. Why not see what can be done AT HOME? In Italy, only one person in 339 has a car; in the United States, about one in five. The difference is not so much in desire as in purchasing power. Let Italy increase her output. Let her increase the income of the people in right proportion, and they are certain to buy more Italian cars.

The United States prospered by enabling her OWN people to buy seven-eighths of the output; not by forcing cars on foreign markets.

Certainly not by the rattling of swords.

Pop was smoking and thinking, and I sed, Hay pop, do you believe its a good thing to make New Year resolutions?

Why yes, it strengthens the will power for a few days at least, pop
sed.

Meaning that was properly all the longer they would last, and I sed,
Well us fellows made some today.
We made kind of easy ones so they wouldn't be too hard to keep, I
sed.

I've herd of worse ideers, pop sed, and I sed, Do you want me to tell you what some of them was?

There are some other things that I properly wunt more, but go ahead, pop sed.

Well, Reddy Merfy made a resolution not to sass anybody unless they were at least younger than 60 years old, I sed.

Well, that won't keep him quite idle, anyway, pop sed, and I sed,
And Sid Hunt made a resolution to stop being late for skool unless its some unavoidable reason he cant help such as not waking intirely up before he goes back to sleep again, and Puds Simkins made one to stop eating between meals unless it happens to be something that wont keep very good such as candy or cake or froot. And do you want to hear mine? I sed.

Well I've gone this far, pop sed,
Meaning he did, and I sed, I made a resolution that if I didnt save at leese half or at least a quarter of my money in 1931 Id make a resolution in 1932 to axually do it.
Be prepared to make it, pop sed.
Wich I am, having a whole year to prepare in, anyways.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SCIENCE: MESSIAH OR MENACE.

I have been saying for some days that as we enter the closing days of 1930 we should be casting up a kind of social balance sheet so that we may face the new year with a decently accurate sense of the good and the bad, the strong and the weak, the rising and the falling, in the various factors and forces with which we are dealing.

Last week I called attention to several interesting observations that incisive students are making on the profit and loss record of the machine as one of the major factors in our civilization.

Today I want to call attention to some valuable generalizations that Dean Inge makes, in the December issue of The Forum, on the gains and losses that the ever-increasing supremacy of science in our civilization involves.

Here are some of the gains that Dean Inge thinks the scientific temper has brought to us:

(1) A higher standard of veracity and a greater respect for evidence, even in the fields of politics and religion, long preempted by prejudice, passion and partisanship.

(2) A rather complete transformation of history, converting it from a bundle of legends and a barrage of propaganda for the historian's pet prejudices into a realistic investigation and interpretation of the facts of the past. No unimportant achievement! For the foresight of the statesman will be warped unless the hindsight of the historian is straight.

(3) The injection of at least a little more conscientiousness into controversial literature and speech.

Public discussion moves—even if at a dishearteningly slow pace—from mere verbal and emotional warfare over the research and realistic consideration of the results of research.

(4) The fact that curiosity is coming to be considered a virtue rather than a vice.

(5) The scrapping of unworthy descriptions away from the idea of God, so that God is no longer looked upon by intelligent men as a jealous, capricious, and cruel oriental sultan, a magnified schoolmaster with birch rod in hand, or a kind of official head of the clergy. Again, a significant achievement! For men's conceptions of God color their conceptions of life and the social order.

(6) The abandonment by intelligent men of a belief in magic and a consequent rise in their sense of responsibility to analyze and administer the affairs of their time rationally and scientifically.

Against these half dozen significant gains that the scientific temper has brought to us, Dean Inge thinks that scientists must stand responsible for a profound loss in so far as they have insisted that only that which can be weighed, counted, and measured is real. A scientific temper without a philosophy that has room for values that cannot be weighed on scales or boiled in test tubes is inadequate.

Here is one good New Year's Resolution: We shall at one and the same time broaden the spirit of science and bring it into sovereignty over more of our life—private and public!

Uncommon Sense

BY JOHN BLAKE

THE NEXT TURN

Thousands of people are employed in the business of making and acting in motion pictures.

Here is an industry, which thirty years ago was so far around the turn of the road of time that few people even dreamed of it.

Yet today it is giving widespread entertainment and, what is equally important just now, a great deal of employment.

Look back a comparatively short time to the day when there were no airplanes to build and fly, about a tenth as many chemical plants as there are today, and only a start in the industry that has been built up by electrical engineers.

Where did the men and women come from who are now profitably employed in these industries?

Were they drafted for the new occupations merely because of the demand for employees?

Were they people, who, save for modern invention, would have been fitted for no profitable work?

Of course not.

They were intelligent men and women, who had taken the trouble to train their minds and adapt their intelligence and industry to conditions such as in their youth were unforeseen.

In other words they were ready for anything to turn up, and prepared, after a little special training, to start on professional careers which were non-existent in their youth.

Today there is much talk of overcrowding in all industries. "Everything has been done," says the despondent beginner. But everything has not been done. There are many things that will be vast industries ten years from tomorrow, which are not even started today.

Opportunity, instead of becoming less with modern invention, becomes vastly greater.

In the activity of flight alone, there is so much to be found out before planes can cross the ocean as ships do now that investigating and industrious brains will have no want of employment and no lack of chance for fame and reputation.

The same is true of radio, chemistry, mechanics, almost every department of industry.

Now that we can see behind us such a sweep of progress, we can begin to glimpse what the future will be—what lies around the next turn of the road.

There is more reason than ever in the history of the race to be ready, with sound bodies and trained minds, when the new opportunities come, as they will and must come, while the world still revolves—and that promises to be quite a long while.

E. A. ROBINSON'S BIRTH

On Dec. 22, 1869, Edward Arlington Robinson, one of the most famous of contemporary American poets, was born at Head Tide, Me.

After two years at Harvard, Robinson went to New York. Here he struggled with poverty and for a time worked in a subway. He leaped into prominence in 1897 when a poem, "The Children of the Night" attracted the attention of Theodore Roosevelt. Since then his fame has grown rapidly.

Robinson's work, as one critic wrote, is "intellectual sincere in feeling, distinctively American in tone and point of view, and free from all that is trivial and meaningless." Amy Lowell called Robinson the most remarkable of living American poets.

A member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, Robinson's outstanding works to date include, "The Man Against the Sky,"

"Merlin," "Lancelot," "The Children of the Night," and "Tristram."
